Kathy.

You have got to be one of the weirdest girls of the school (just kidding) and you'll go to the moon. See you next year (but don't hide yourself in the summer). So be good and be sure to call!

Love,

"Jo"

Kathy,

What can I say to one of the sweetest most understanding girls of the Senior class of "72". Even though we only met this year, it seems as though you've been one of my "kids" here at E.D.H.S. for a lifetime.

We've been very close and through a lot of trying times together, I only hope & pray I was of some help when you needed me. If I don't return to E.D. next year don't forget where I live and remember my doors are always open to you and all your "Debbie" and all your friends in Remember "Friendship always benefits the ones we love the most for their is no greater desert than friendship.

R. M. A.

Love Ya,

"Ma."

Kathy,

What this year has meant to me is more than words can express. To put into words what it was great & what it was a part of, would be impossible. I am glad I got to know you & see you grow. I hope this summer will be the best ever. Remember always I love you!

Debbie "71" & "72"

Good luck with the D.A. next year. I expect that Homecoming will be the best ever. Have a pleasant summer and be ready to work in the fall. Don't let those grades slip because of elections. Keep laughing and stay as nice as you are and you will go far. It's been a pleasure working with you and it will always be. Best of luck.

Mr. Enrietto

Kathy,
Thanks for all the good times, and your understanding during the bad times. Kathy, you have got a great gift for life, your love for people. I hope you will never lose this, it will earn you many friends throughout your life. If you ever change & feel ~~sft~~ sit down. Keep Smiling :)

Love,
Lori '72

Kathy,
Good Luck as V.P.
I know that you will do a more than adequate job because that is the type of student you are. You have the makings to be a wonderful person and I know that you will succeed at whatever ~~[redacted]~~ achievement you desire. Good Luck!

Mr. Barbieri

Kath,
It's been some year in this History class. I'm really glad I got to know you better this year. You've a lot of fun & have a really outstanding personality. Keep smiling. You're one person I know who won't have trouble succeeding in life.

See ya next year,
Patty & Mike '72

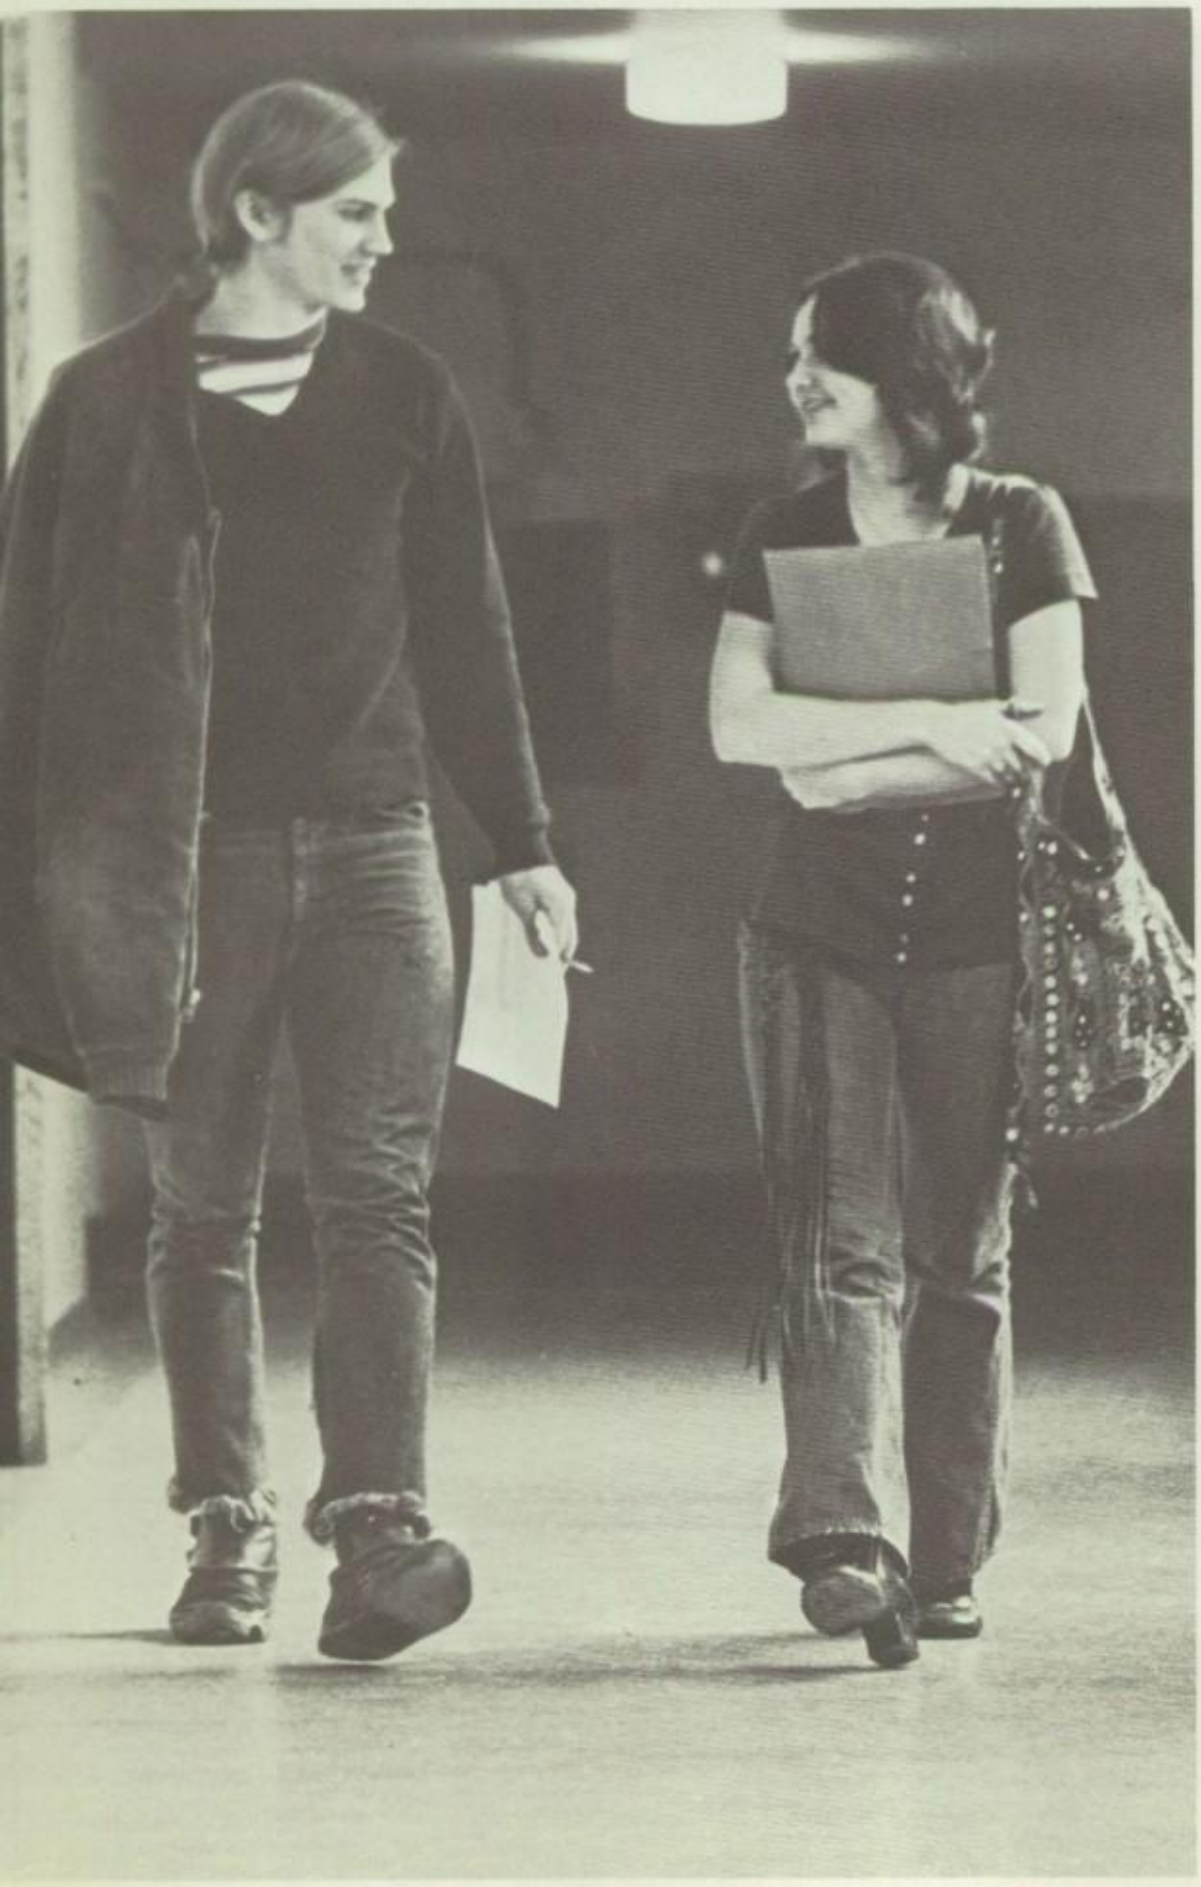
Today I saw a face
It was a familiar face,
One I had probably seen one hundred times before.
But today it was different.
I saw beyond the mask of cold physical traits,
too often confused with the inner self.
Today I saw a human being.



A human being, who like a pearl in the rough, housed an inner luster.
Beauty, radiating from within, was hidden to the eyes of objectivity.
There no longer stood before me a long-haired peer,
But rather an individual, whose heart pumped life and love.

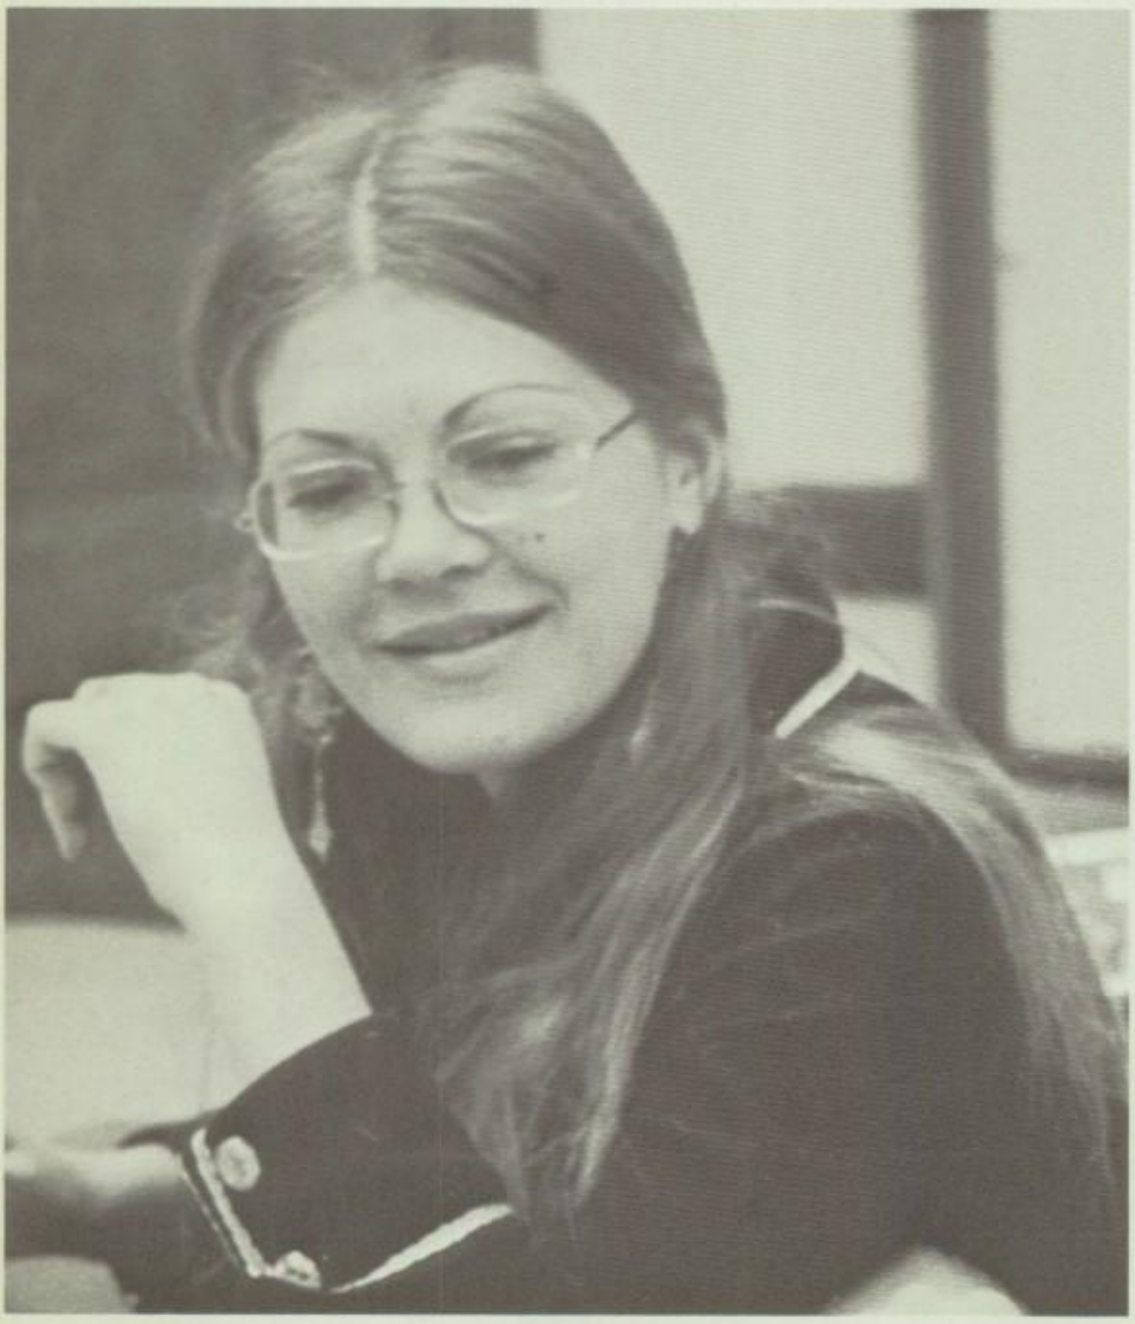
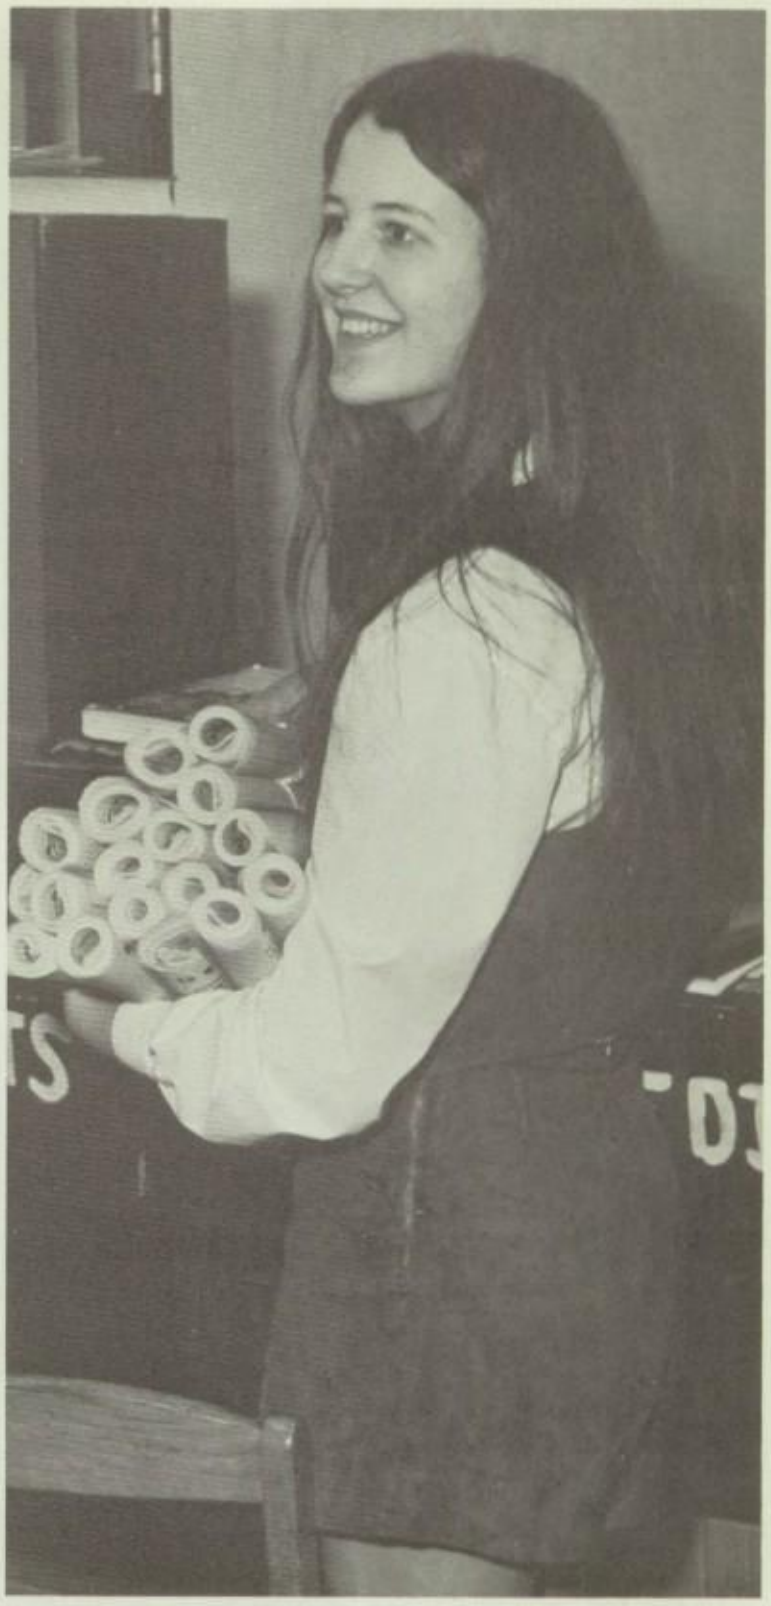
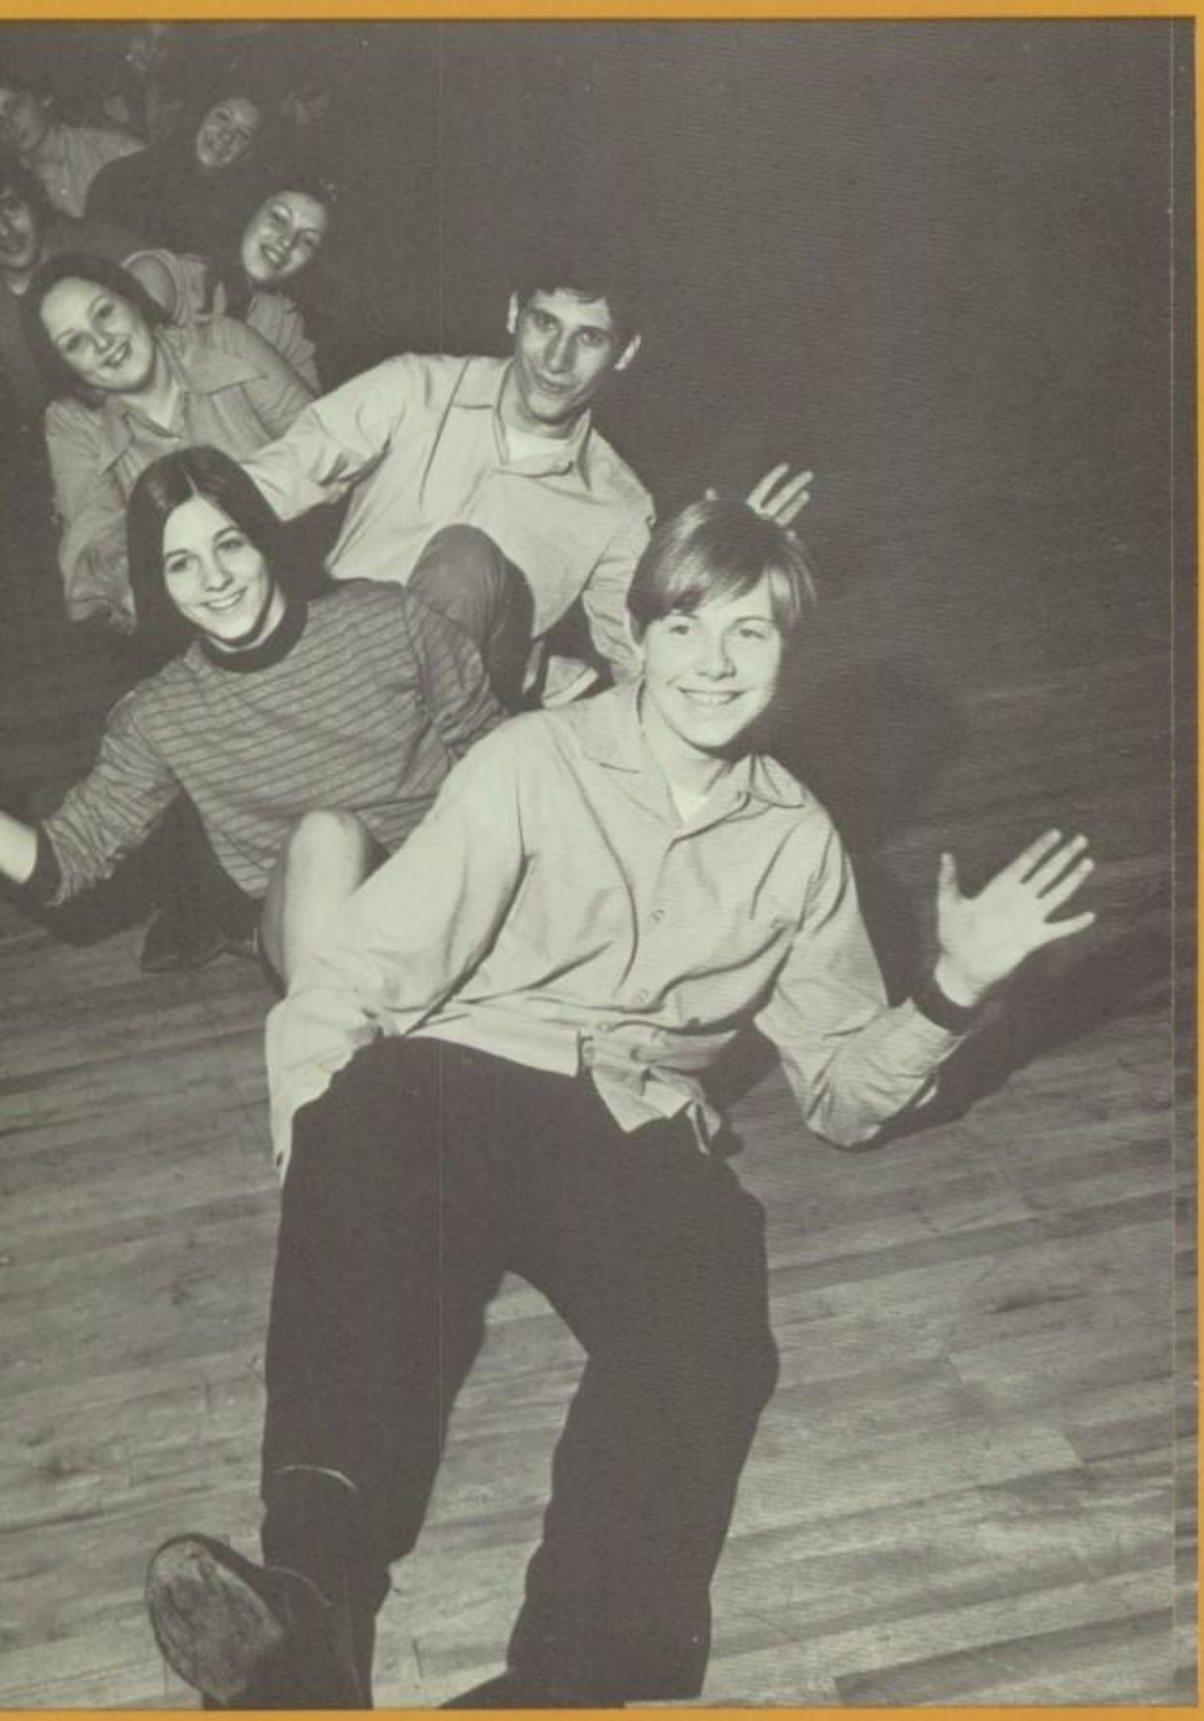
With my realization came a greater tolerance of all people.
The word human was no longer a distant, intangible adjective.
Instead it became an integral part of my concept of myself, friends and others.





activities

MAKE-UP transformed familiar faces into ghosts, insects and clowns as EDHS students masqueraded across the stage during the many special activities presented throughout the year. Scores of characters, both fictional and true-to-life, helped to make 1971 memorable to all.



Roman Theme Expands Homecoming Activities

ENTHUSIASM generated from the record breaking crowd which attended the 1970 Homecoming festivities. The four day gala affair carried the theme "A Roman Touch."

The first day was marked by a tug-of-war, which ended in a mudbath. Chariot races took place on Thursday, with twelve chariots of different clubs and groups competing. Two awards were given; the fastest chariot award was given to the "Friends," and the most original chariot award was given to the Social Studies club. With the third day of activities, came the parade, game, and Burger Bash. The EDHS Marching Band led the parade, followed by the queen candidates and court, class floats and club entries. The three junior highs were also represented. The pregame show starred the cheerleaders performing a dance routine to "Along Comes Mary." During halftime, the band presented a show about pollution and announced a clothes pin as their "solution to pollution." The highlight of the halftime activities was the announcement of the new Homecoming Queen, Karen Seaton.

Following the game, 850 people attended the Burger Bash, at which the "Nation" provided entertainment. Saturday night's semi-formal dance, which featured the music of "Apple," ended the four-day event. The Homecoming Queen and her court, as well as winning floats and cars were honored.

Social Studies Tour Explores Historic East

HISTORY came to life for the 73 students who toured New York and Washington. Enthusiasm generated from their faces as they waved good-by to the monotony of daily student life and became camera-snapping, souvenier-collecting tourists for the six-day October trip.

The first stop over was in Gettysburg, the most famous setting of the Civil War. Washington D. C. was stormed next. Two days were spent visiting the Capitol, White House, National Archives, F.B.I. Headquarters, Bureau of Printing and Engraving and the Smithsonian Institution.

Williamsburg was a favorite among many students. A film entitled "Story of a Patriot" which used the preserved city itself as its setting was shown. The tour members were taken on a guided tour of the more famous places and then given some free time.

Flashing neon lights welcomed the seniors to New York's sparkling night-life. Two days were spent in this exciting city. At the end of each day students and teachers alike returned to the hotel with sore feet and polluted lungs, as the city's air was proclaimed unhealthy during that week.

The tour was arranged by the Dely Travel Agency and Mr. Dely himself accompanied the four teacher–chaperones and helped to make the tour memorable for everyone.

Young Instrumentalists Enliven Winter Concert

NATIONAL recognition was given to the Wind Ensemble when they were invited to attend the Mid-East Conference in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Students rehearsed diligently from September on, in preparation for their many important performances, including the winter concert.

Conference activities included performing selected numbers before about 1000 band directors, accompanying the noted soloist Emerson W. Head and playing under a guest conductor. A side trip to Indiana State University in Indiana, Pennsylvania was enjoyed by the 62 members and 6 teacher-chaperones.

The combined band members sold Christmas decorations and candy to collect money for the trip and for the many various other trips and expenses throughout the year.

Superior ratings from both district and state festivals have come to EDHS annually. March 13 marked this year's district festival, where the Wind Ensemble and the Concert Band were adjudicated and rated under AA and A competition levels, respectively.

The marching band participated in halftime activities in every home football game this fall. They also took first place in the University of Michigan's homecoming parade high school competition.

A polished performance was presented at the Spring concert in May and the bands' activities culminated in their last performance at the Commencement exercises in June.

MADRIGAL SINGERS BLEND THEIR SELECT VOICES IN FOUR PART HARMONY FOR A TRADITIONAL CHRISTMAS CAROL.

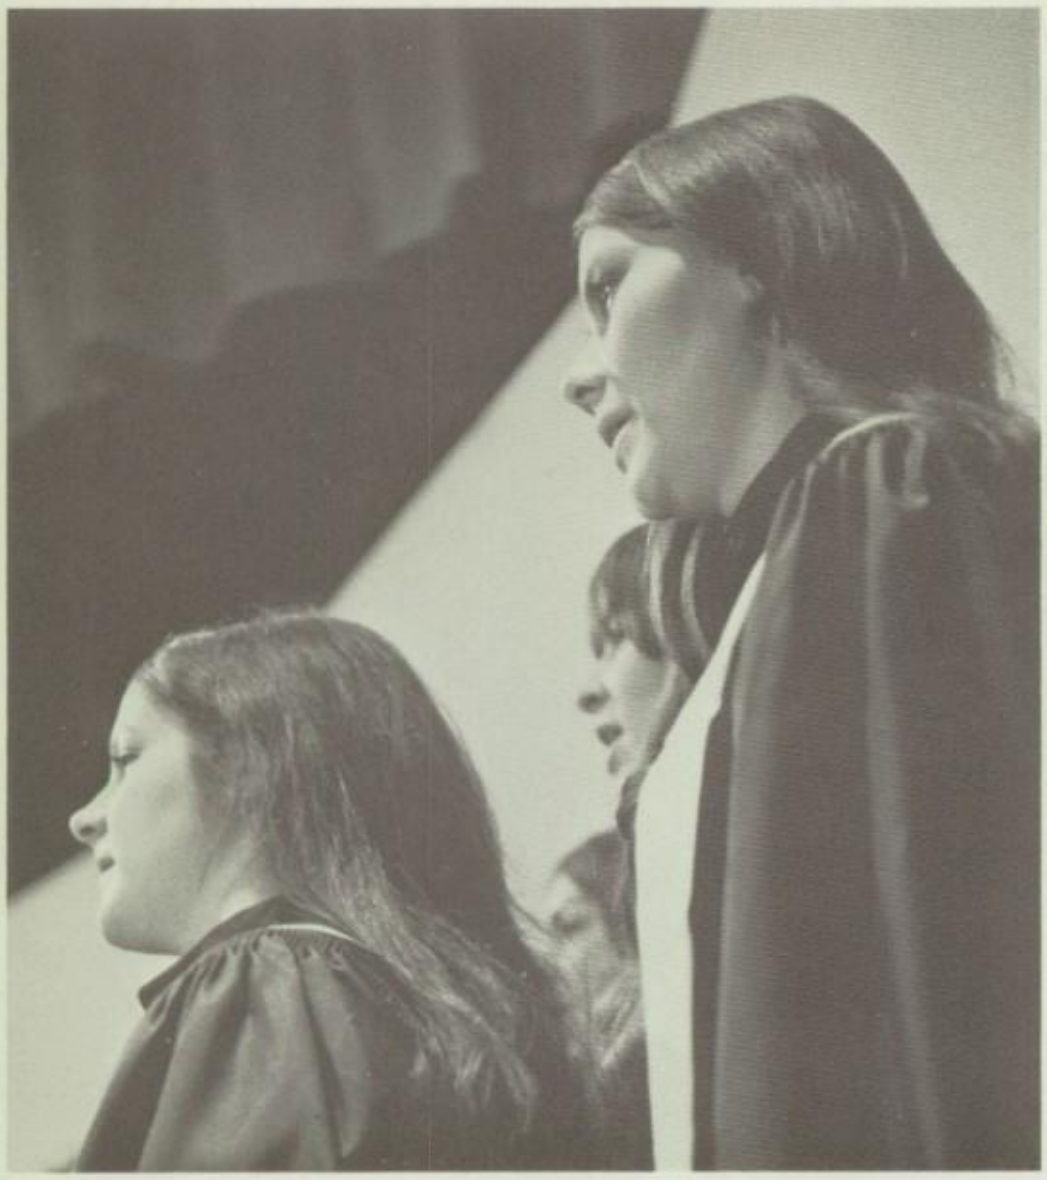
Select Voices Combine At Christmas Concert



COMBINED efforts of the Concert and Shamrock Choirs and the Choral Music class helped to make the Christmas concert a success.

The annual event started on a serious note as all three choirs sang religious songs and the traditional Christmas carols. The first half ended with a presentation from "Amahl and the Night Visitors" by the Concert Choir. Richard Kass played Amahl, Cindy Hand portrayed the mother and Roger Bokano, David Ironside and Frank Mogan played the three kings. The rest of the choir joined in the "Shepherd's Chorus".

The second half of the concert was lighter in spirit. A stage backdrop, fireplace, and Christmas tree were used to give the stage a more casual appearance. All three choirs, an accordian quartet and the Madrigals performed secular songs. The Madrigals, a select group of 16 upperclassmen chosen on the basis of sight reading ability, blend and tone quality, climaxed the second half with an amusing selection called "Deck the Hut with Coconut."

Contemporary songs were chosen to be part of the finale. Frank Mogan and Gina Manian sang the solo parts in "I'll Be There" and three choirs sang "Close to You." The traditional "Hallelujah Chorus" was modernized by the addition of a moog synthesizer as accompaniment.

SECOND sopranos Kathy Krug, Cheryl Hawes and Bev Bartlett harmonize with thechoir. BELOW, accordian players Dan Christopher, Roger Bokano and Jeanine Gianotti add an instrumental touch.

Drama Department Stages Czechslovakian Satire

SATIRE on human life was the theme of the fall play, "The Insect Comedy." Written by the Czechoslovakian Brothers Copek, the play was divided into three main acts which exemplified love, sex, politics and war.

The play was presented by the Pit and Balcony Drama club and the EDHS drama department headed by Mr. Raymond Beard. Special help was given by student director Linda Barrett and stage manager Judy Stahl. Ken Nichols portrayed the leading role of the tramp who entered the world of insects and discovered a society comparable to ours. Cast in supporting roles were approximately 25 interested drama students, some of which had more than one part.

Lighting and scenery were vital aspects of the production because mood and atmosphere played as important parts as the players in transferring the proper message to the audience. Students and their supervisors spent weeks preparing the elaborate background and intricate lighting and sound effects.

Mrs. Margaret Emlaw prepped the cast members on movement of the various insects which was performed in great detail throughout the production adding authenticity.

DEATH COMES TO THE TRAMP, KEN NICHOLS, JUST AS HE LEARNS THE SECRETS OF LIFE IN THE INSECT WORLD.

BUTTERFLIES settling on Ken Nichols' head are the object of Jay Beech's net, LEFT. Cindy Hand flirts and tries to charm male butterfly Rick Waitz, ABOVE.

Contemporary Spring Play Displays English Humor

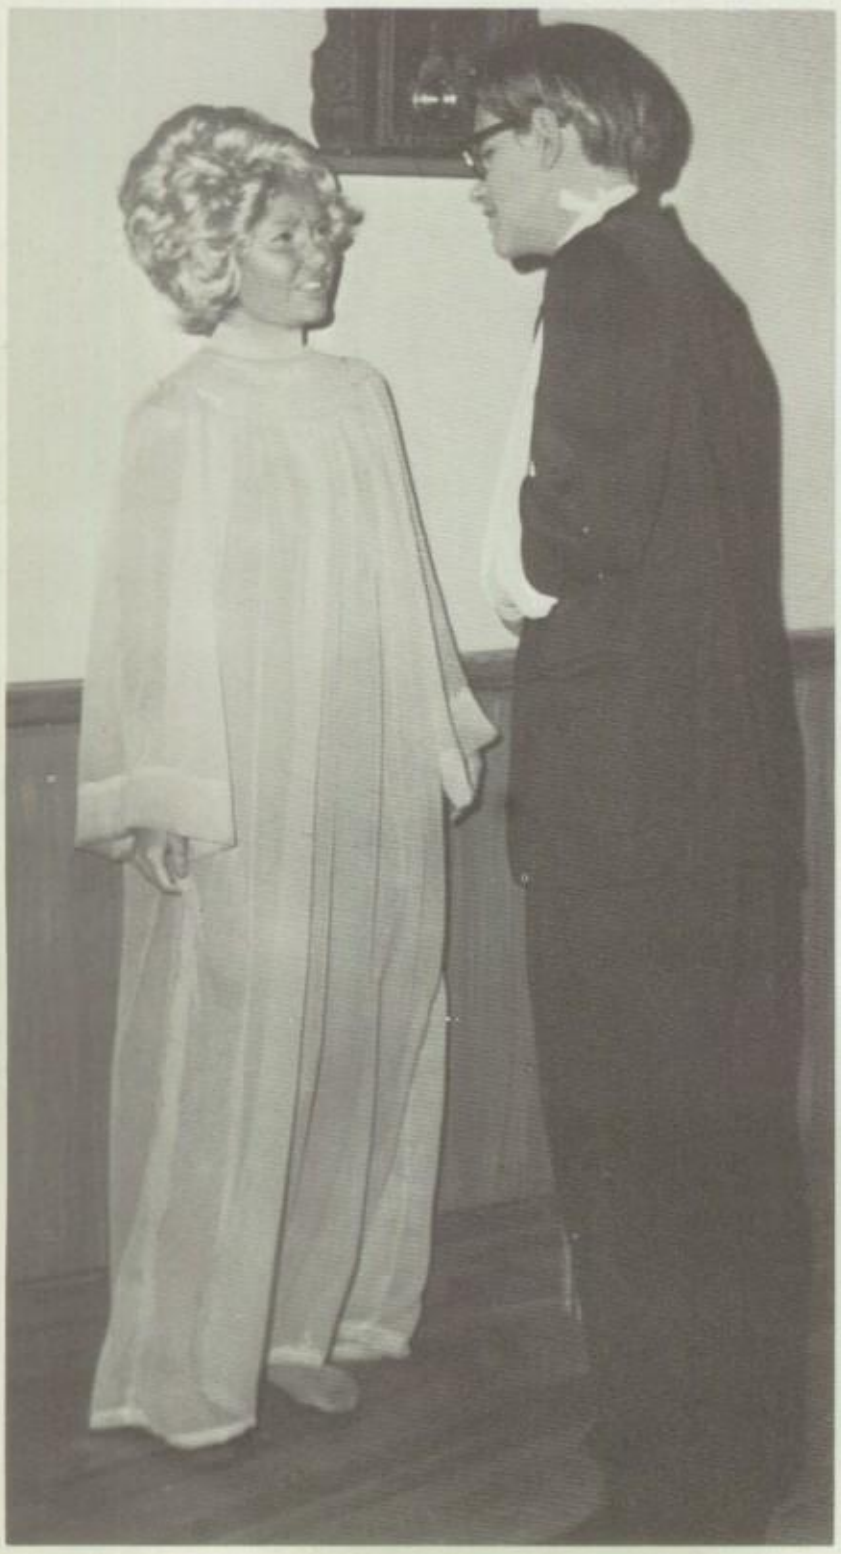
SPOOKS and spirits were summoned to the EDHS stage during the spring presentation of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit". This comedy farce, typifying English subtlety and dry wit, combined with special student touches to become a hilarious success.

The story centered around the comic experiences of a well-to-do novelist and his lovely second wife who became involved in learning the language of the occult. Humorous situations evolved when the "passed over" first wife was called back from beyond during a seance and plotted to do away with her husband. Her plans were foiled when the second wife was killed by accident and became the second blithe spirit to torment the poor, unsuspecting widower.

Mr. Raymond Beard was assisted by student director Laurie Greig in the casting and supervision of the production. Members of the small cast were: Linda Barrett, Jan Church, Kathy Ginnel, Cindy Hand, Dave Osborn, Rick Waitz and Denise Yardley.

Trying to keep the play as authentic as possible, all the actors were coached in the use of the English accent. A trick stage was constructed to collapse in the final act.

Because of the success of the fall play, an extra afternoon matinee of the spring play was held for students.



ACCUSATIONS of trickery and attempted murder are flung by an angry Charles Condomine at a frightened Elvira, his first wife.

SHOCK is expressed by Mrs. Condomine, Denise Yardley, as the ghost of Elvira, Cindy Hand, carries a vase to Mr. Condomine, Rick Waitz. BELOW, Medium Madame Arcadi, Linda Barrett tries to get some answers from the maid, Kathy Ginnel.

CONSULTING her mysterious crystal ball, Linda Barrett contacts the "other side" as Rick Waitz anxiously awaits the results.

Outstanding Shenanigan Reruns Staged Anew

PERFORMANCES sparkling with vitality marked the 22nd presentation of Shenanigans. Rehearsals began in the first week of February under the direction of Thomas F. Timlin Jr. and Robert Horek. Over 100 students participated in the show, which played for three nights in early spring.

Shenanigans originated in 1949, and has been staged annually, cancelled only in 1970 because of fire damage in the auditorium. The late Mr. John Enwright created the show and remained advisor for 21 years. The opening number of the first Shenanigans production, "There's No Business Like Show Business", was used again this year to open the show.

Other members included the well-known "Can-Can" dance, which was performed in both 1952 and 1955, and "Aquarius", one of the most colorful acts of 1969. For this number, five of the original nine cast members returned to the EDHS stage and Tim Timlin resumed his role as lead singer.

New to Shenanigans were some 1930 blackouts and Burlesque skits, as well as "Pencils", a skit written by Mr. Enwright. "Everybody is a Star" and "Stand" by Sly and The Family Stone were arranged by Tim Timlin and incorporated into the finale.

To honor his contributions and devoted efforts, the 1971 production was dedicated to Mr. Enwright.

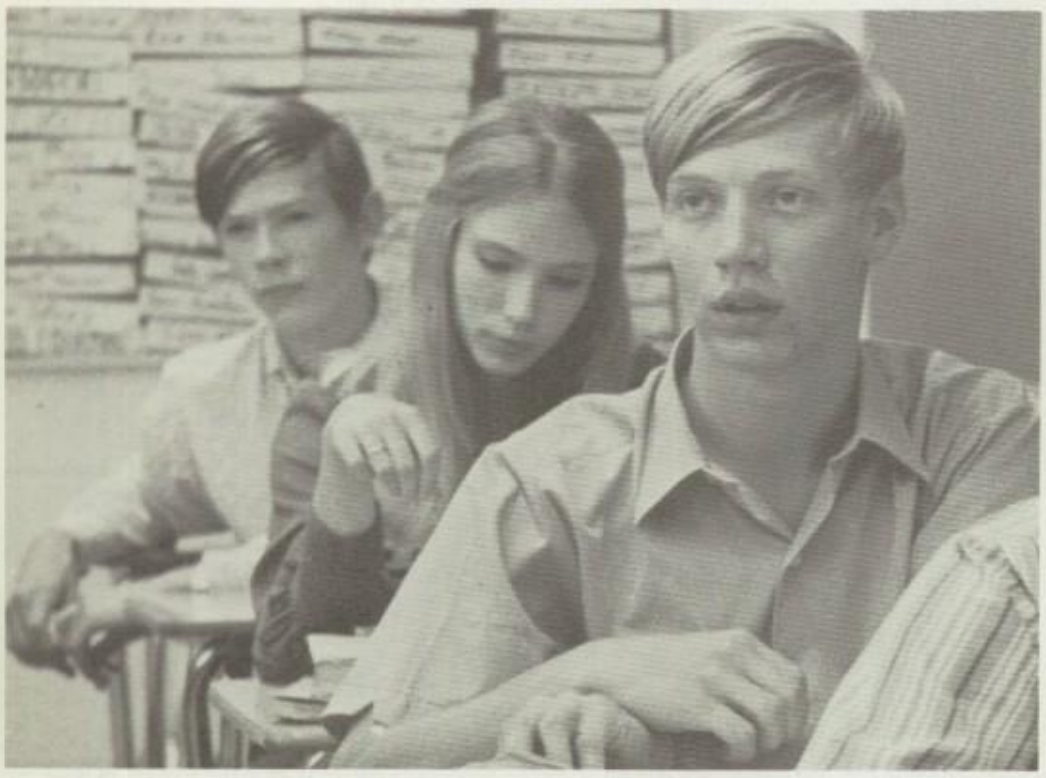
Each Student Adds His Own Touch To EDHS



ABSOLUTELY the best parts of school are the daily experiences of every individual student – whether they be good or bad, sad or hilariously happy, big events or small incidents.

The good and bad seem to balance out each other: the school has a coke machine, but it's hidden in the teacher's cafeteria; some days the teachers decide to have meetings and the students are let out early, only to lug a pile of books home (guaranteed to keep them busy all night); bells mark the end of the school day, but they always seem to ring right in the middle of an essay test.

Many obstacles block the student from leading a carefree existance – mile-long lunch lines, staying up until two in the morning to finish a term paper, hall mothers. It is simple to visualize locker partners walking down the hall the first day of school arguing as to who should get the top shelf, only to find one shelf in the locker.

Each student has his own memories which range from the "big night out" to getting an "A" in his hardest class to dropping all his books in a crowded hallway. The gang going out for lunch, skipping class for the first time, getting caught for that first time, that perfect person, jokes at the lunch table, a cute sub, all make up a normal day at East Detroit.

COMPARING schedules, RIGHT, on the first day of school, Paulette Torre, Laura Richards, Claudia Robbins and Vivian Fargo try to find matching classes. ABOVE, Ralph Barthel, Donna Braun and Mark Darby wait impatiently for their lecture to end.

END of the day finds Paula Rocco, Diane Smilka, Cynthia Arnold Reena Oliver and Dawn Torp gladly leaving the school. LEFT, Regina Walsh finds herself in a compromising position as she reaches for a book on the top shelf of her locker.

CROWDS of smiling and talking faces were an everyday sight as students relax in the commons during lunch.

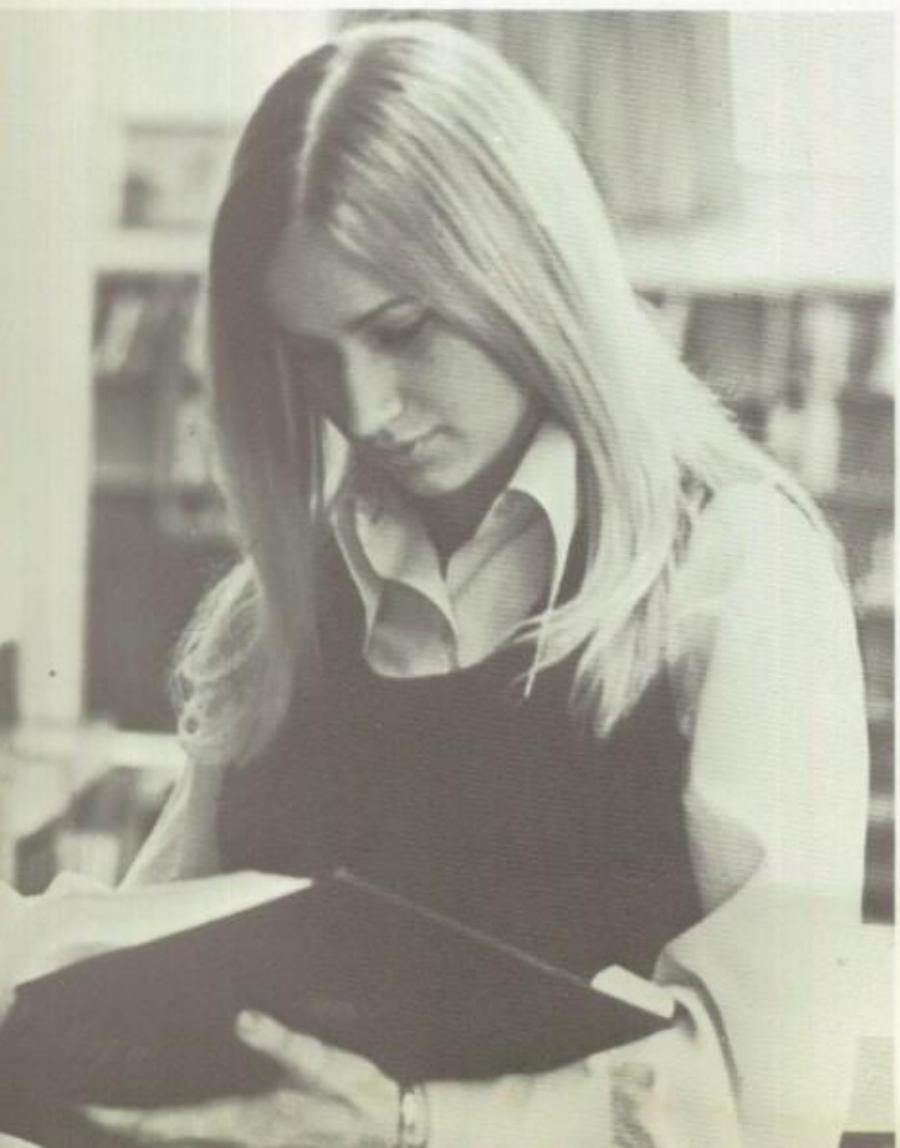
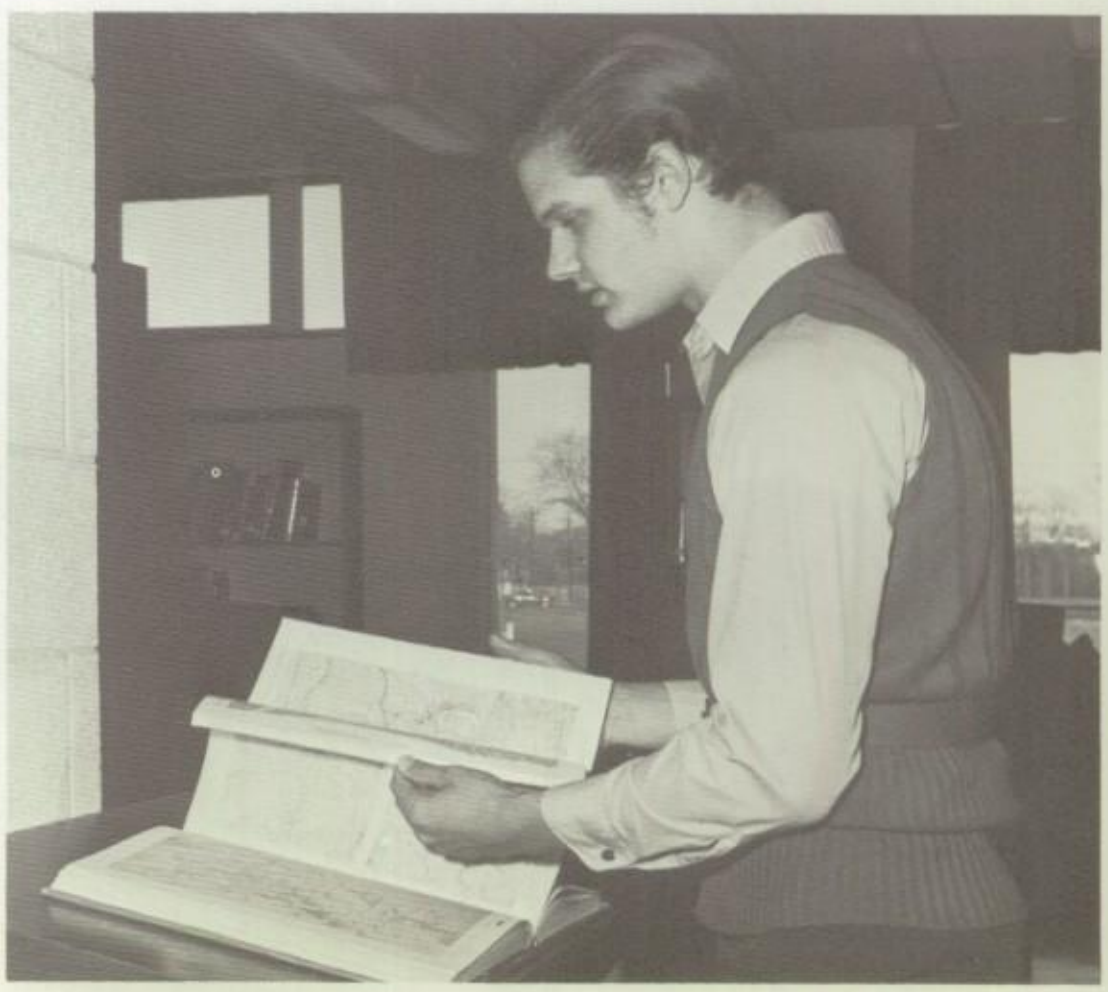
PATTY POUCHER

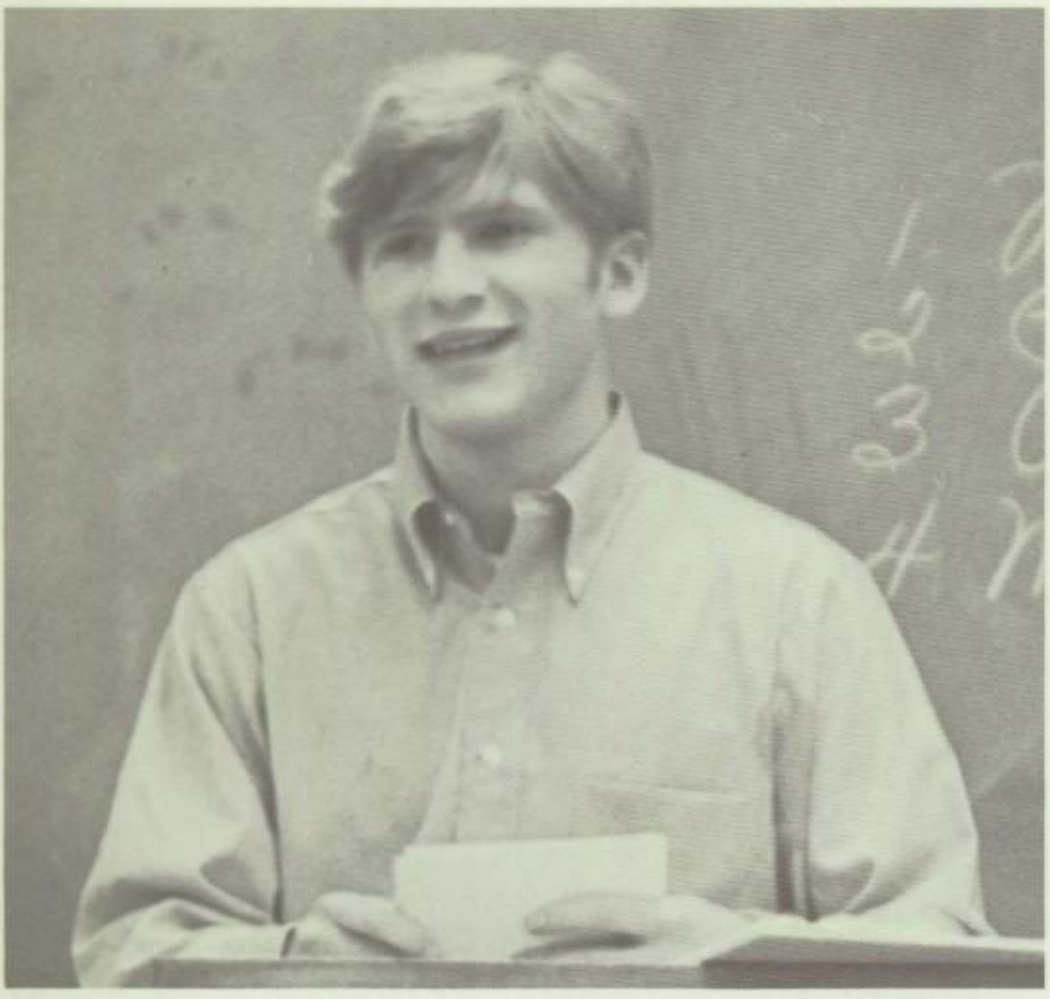
DAR WINNER KAREN LINENGER



NATIONAL MERIT WINNER MARK LAESCH



Honors Awarded To Top EDHS Students



SPEECH WINNER JIM RADICH

ACHIEVEMENTS in special areas such as mathematics, public speaking, good citizenship and scholarship were awarded to several outstanding EDHS students.

"Freedom, Our Heritage" was the topic of this year's Voice of Democracy speech competition. Public speaking and debate enthusiast, Jim Radich, won the contest, which was sponsored by the community Veterans of Foreign Wars posts.

Representing EDHS at the Presidential Classroom held in Washington D.C., were Denise Lavender and Denise Misson. This effort to promote student awareness of government procedures was supported by twelfth grade civics teachers and social studies department head, Miss Buell.

National Merit Scholarship award-winner Mark Laesch received financial support in attending the college of his choice.

The annual Good Citizenship award was presented to Karen Linenger by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Karen was chosen on the basis of her patriotism, dependability and leadership. Karen went on to qualify as one of the twelve state finalists vying for top college scholarships.

The Cover Girl contest was again sponsored by the Shamrock staff. The happy winner was Patty Poucher, who collected the most pennies during the cannister campaign.

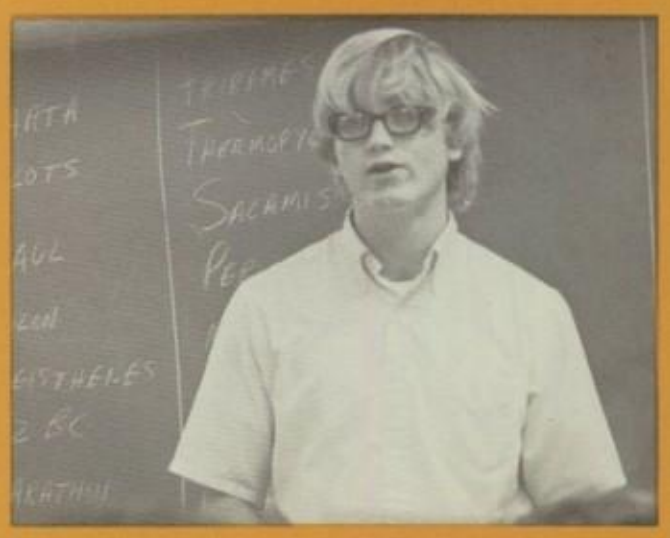
The senior girls won beauty titles in community and state competition. Beverly Bartlett was Miss Macomb Mall for 1970 and Linda Pompi competed in the Miss Teenage America Pageant in Fort Worth, Texas, as Miss Teenage Detroit.

Mona Mort and John Tingwall were chosen as Cinderella and Prince Charming at the Cinderella Ball, in February.

PRESIDENTIAL Classroom for Young Americans, held in Washington D.C., was attended by Denise Lavender and Denise Misson.

academics

PROFILES of the future were revealed by the academic self. As individual personalities evolved, students acquired the traits necessary for emotional development. Each new experience enabled them to anticipate the demands of all facets of the life awaiting them.



New EPIC Program Provides Varied Classes

EPIC (Elective Program In Communications) was the new pilot English program introduced at EDHS for the 1970-71 academic year. The program stressed the important skills necessary to meet the needs of students, whether they are going on to college or on to employment.

Students were surveyed last year by the department heads to learn which courses appealed to them the most. After being counseled by English teachers and their own parents, students elected their choices.

Courses were leveled in accordance of difficulty and challenge. 46 different courses were offered with split semesters so as to allow a varied exporure to literature and writing skills by the end of high school. Some of the more unique additions were research paper, oriental literature, humanities, the Bible as literature, Afro-American literature and independent reading. Under this system, classes had a relatively even cross-section of sophomores, juniors and seniors.

Drama, speech and journalism courses were also offered in the EPIC system. Drama students learned the art and mechanics of stage production which entailed such things as stage construction, make-up and costuming, and lighting and sound effects, as well as the all-important physical aspects of drama. Public speaking, argument and debate, and forensics helped students acquire the fundamentals of this important field through individual speeches, panel discussions and debates. Journalism was taught to prepare students for the significant task of informative writing.

VIBRANT Spanish garb is modeled and described by Nancy Rutkowski, Darlene Pappas, and Jayne Smiley, BELOW. German student Ron Czischke, RIGHT, participates in a class discussion.

Language Skills Utilized In Foreign Travel

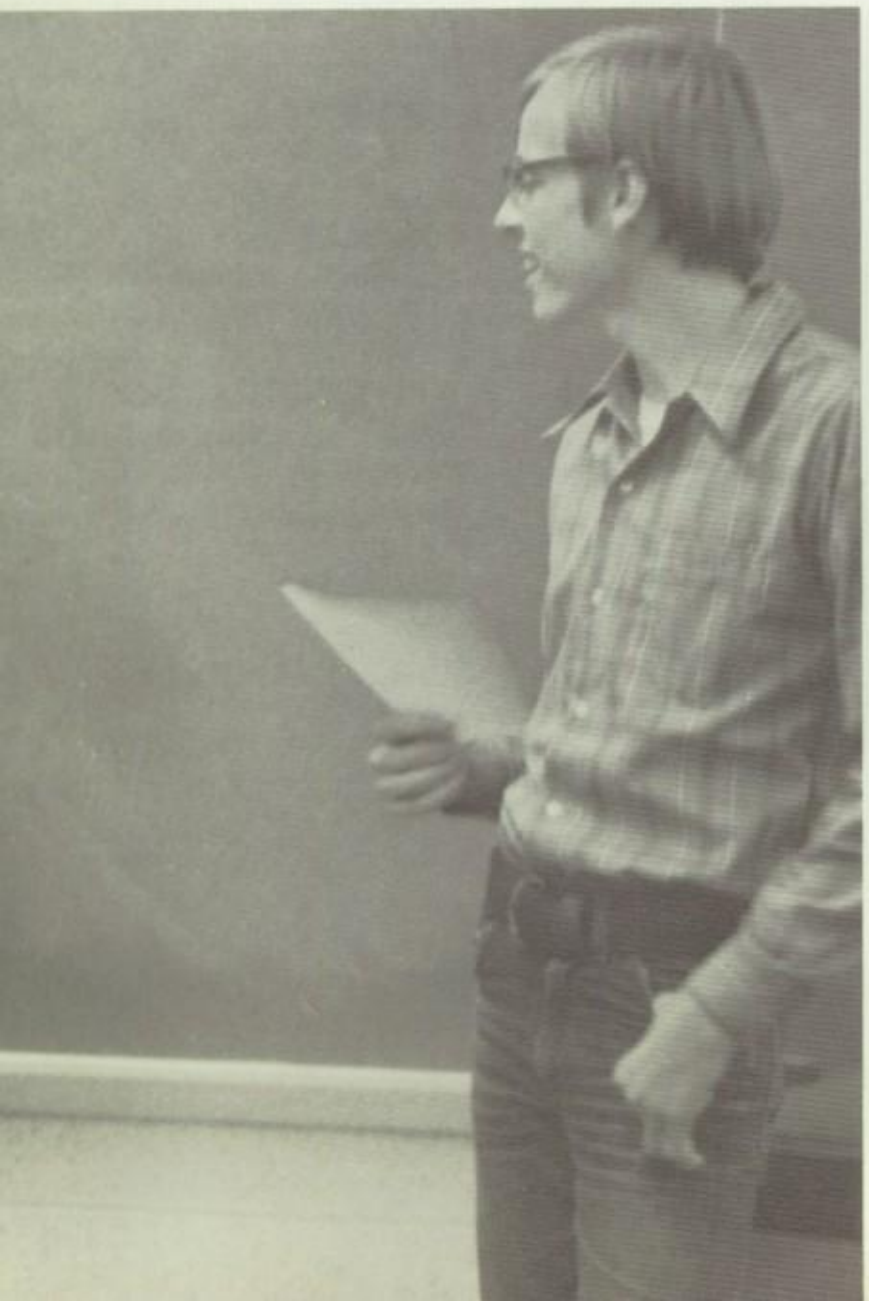
DIVERSIFIED study encouraged student participation in his year's language program. Most Spanish, French and German classes were enhanced by skits, travel, and cultural demonstrations.

Students strengthened their use of the four language skills: listening, speaking, reading and writing. Traditional teaching methods were partnered with technology to allow students to become masters of these skills.

French and Spanish students presented video taped versions of popular television game shows. Spanish students portrayed contestants of the 'Dating Game.' French classes presented the 'Newlywed Game,' the 'Dating Game,' and the 'Hollywood Squares,' costumes, backdrops, props, and commercials added realism to the amateur productions.

Travel, also, became an integral part of the language program when French and German students planned trips to foreign countries. French travelers found their destinations to be Montreal and Quebec, where they spent approximately five days. German plans were made on a much larger scale, as a six week European tour was scheduled to begin on June 14. This trip, however, was not sponsored solely for German students. Any EDHS student who could afford the $800 traveling expenses was eligible for the oversea trip which included seeing such cities as Amsterdam, Naples, Rome, Paris, and Versailles.

Highlighting the Christmas season was a demonstration of the preparation of French cuisine. Students had the opportunity to sample Swiss fondue, crêpes, and escargots.



RIVAL sweet and sour taste buds Deb Cunningham, Kathy Quennville, and Danielle Sass, promote their favorite candy during a French commercial. SPIRITS FILL THE ROOM AS AMERICAN SOCIETY STUDENT CHUCK STICKNEY LEADS CLASSMATES IN A SEANCE.

Social Problems Explored In American Society

EXPERIMENTAL methods emphasized group effort as social studies teachers tried to develop self-awareness among their students. Discussion groups explored foreign policy, political systems and the various types of economic systems in the world.

Insight into contemporary American problems was gained by students enrolled in American Society classes. Guest speakers representing the Women's Liberation front, the Jesus Movement, the Gay Liberation and the Black Panthers discussed their organizations' activities. The class also participated in a project directed at understanding the ecology of the inner city.

Psychology students utilized maze learning devices such as mirror drawing boards and the Pursuit Rotor in their study of patterns of behavior. The class investigated the principles of learning and the processes of thinking. They also tried to recognize and maintain characteristics of good mental health for making adequate adjustments to life.

Civics classes actively participated in the Student Government Day and Michigan Week programs. They also attended local meetings of the Board of Education and the City Council.

Guest speakers supplemented teachers' agendum. Congressman James O'Hara spoke to civics classes about current issues in politics. Chief Warrant Officer, Peter G. Anderson related his experiences as a helicopter pilot in Vietnam.

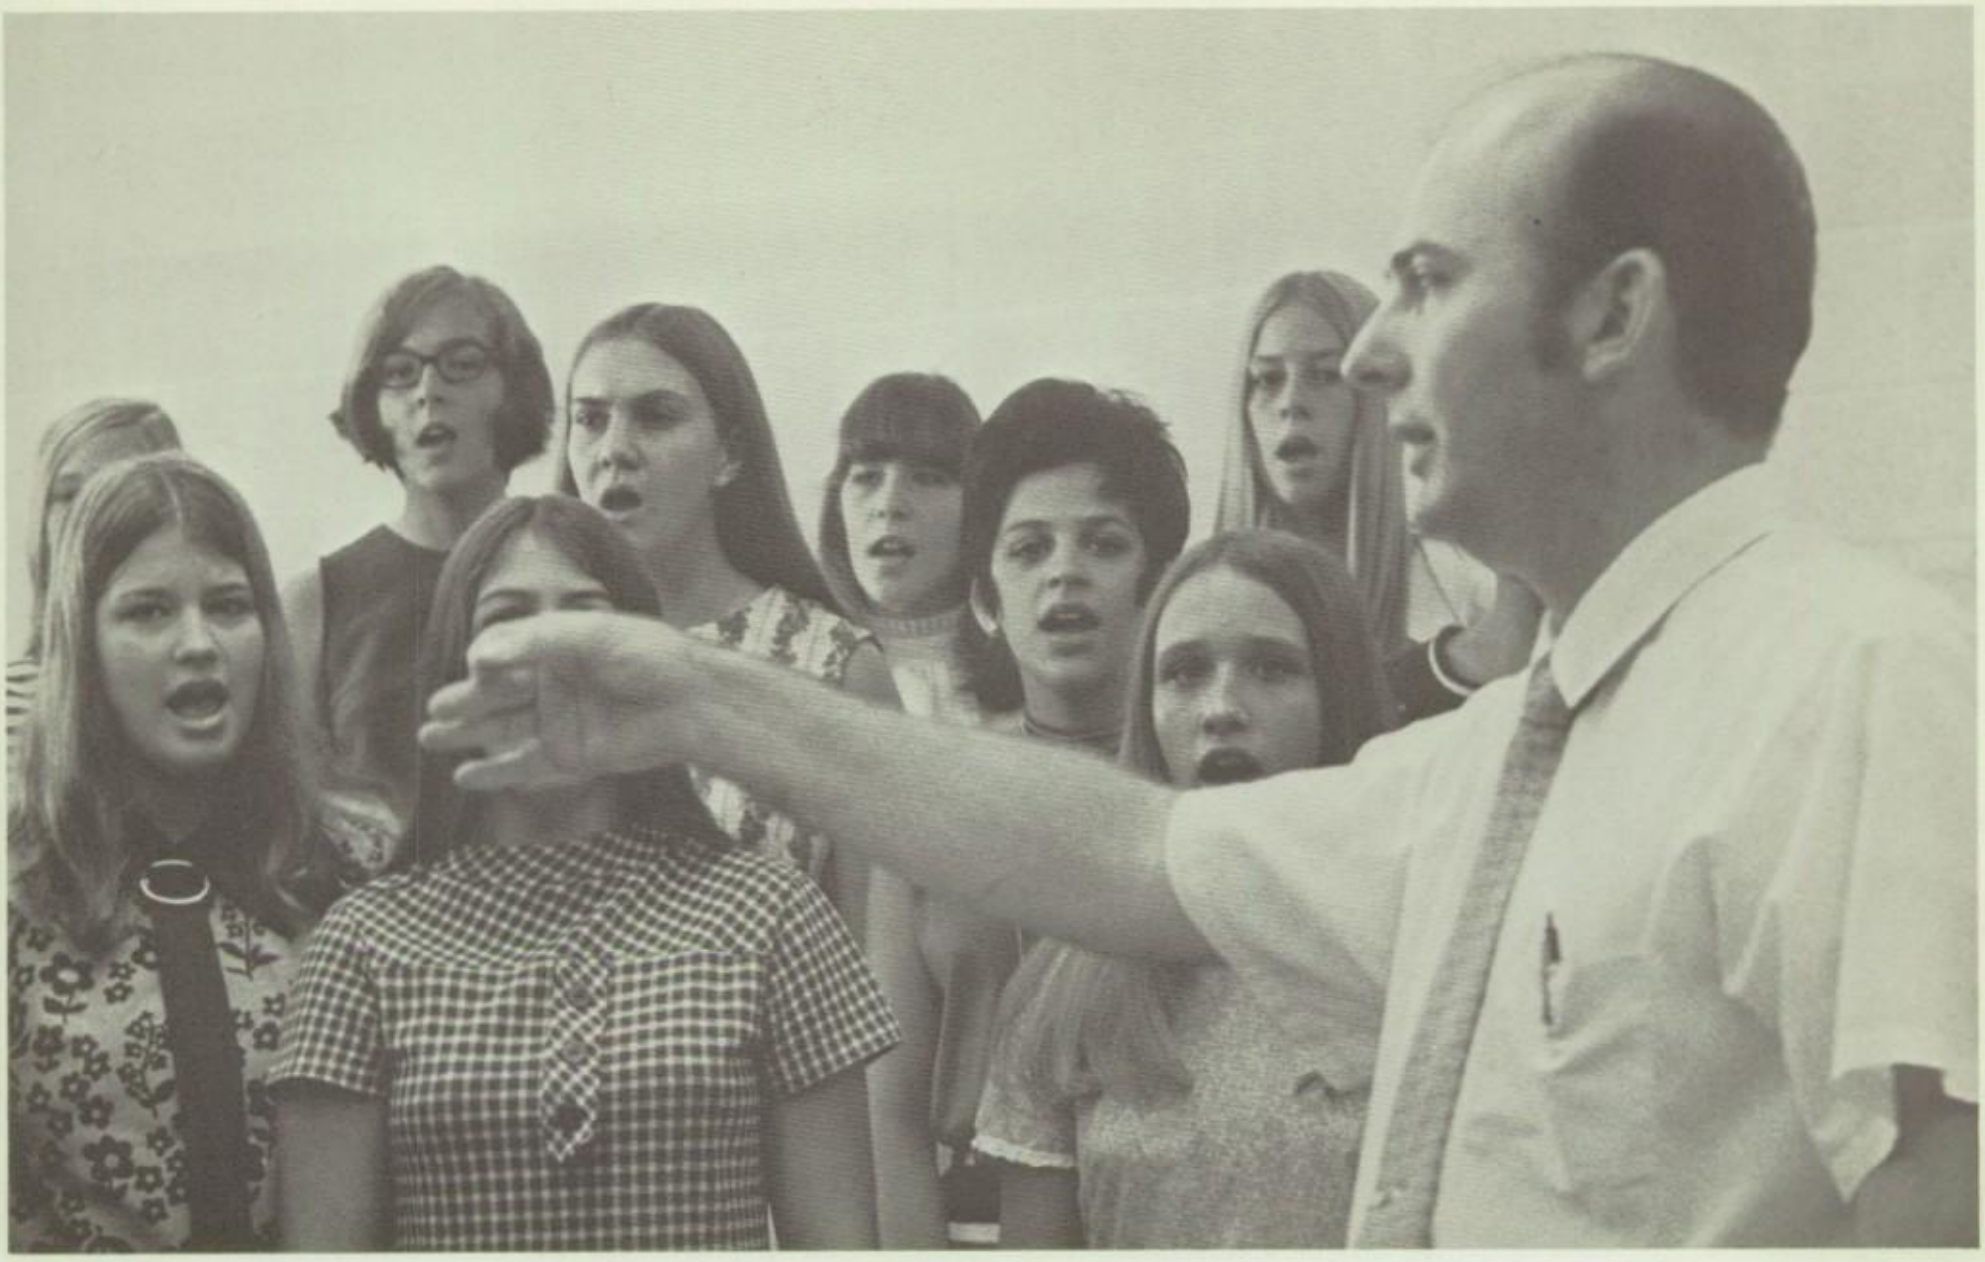
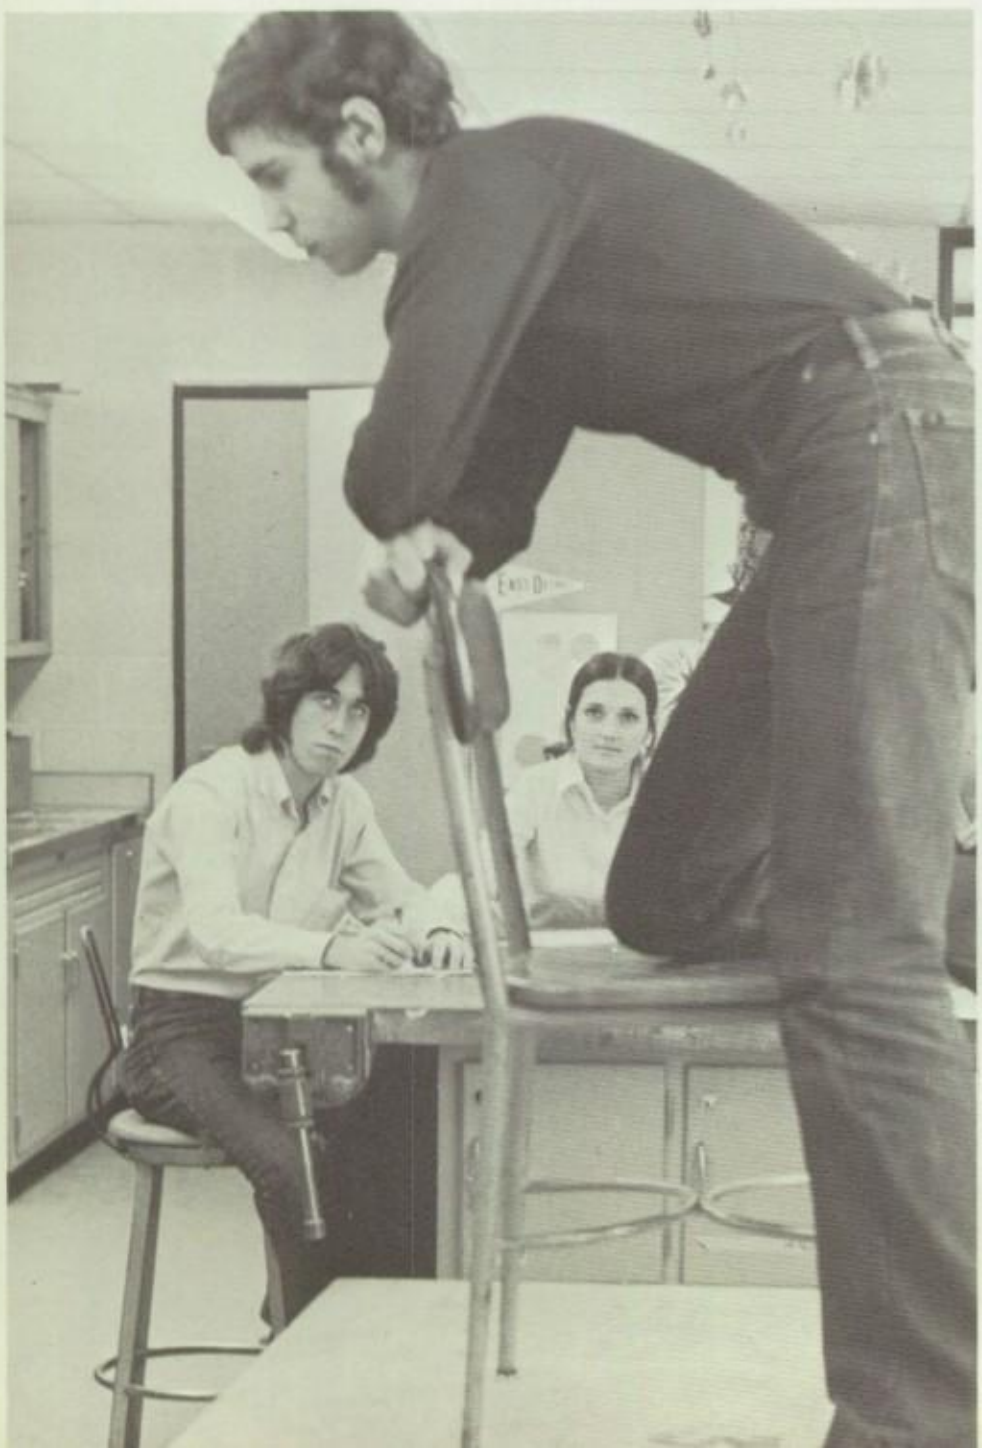
BRUSHES, oils, and talent transform student artist Chris Wheatley's canvas into a meaningful work.





Fine Arts Provide Outlet For Individuality, Self

UNIQUE expressions of ideas as well as cooperative blending of talents formed the basis of the creative efforts put forth by the fine arts' department.

Both the Concert band and the Symphonic Wind Ensemble participated actively in school concerts, performance trips and district and state-wide festivals on both combined and individual levels.

Music theory and music appreciation were expanded this year to allow for the revived interest in these areas. Musical compostions and their composers were studied as well as the techniques of writing and analyzing music. Instrumental demonstrations were given to the appreciation classes by members of the Wind Ensemble.

Choral enthusiasts participated in the Concert and Shamrock choirs or the Choral Music class. Students acquired the art of acapella singing, sight-reading and keyboard experience.

Diversified curricula within the art department encouraged ingenuity as students became involved in the design and production of jewelry, wood carvings, pottery and clay sculptures. Delving into the world of advertising, students incorporated their talents in poster lettering and ad redesigning. Self portraits and charcoal drawings challenged the creative efforts of prospective artists.

PROOFS pose challenges for geometry students, Steve Warren and George Savic, as they test their knowledge of math theorems at the board.

Computers Promote New Outlook On Math Studies

EMPHASIS was placed on logic in academic math classes. With the introduction of computer programming, students not only acquired programming skills, but also had the opportunity to devise logic techniques. The ASR 33 Teletypwriters, used to check calculations, were made available to students.

In addition to working with computers, geometry classes preceded their studies of formal proofs with a unit on logic. This "logical" approach to geometry resulted in student discovery through intuition and induction. Students also became aware of logical thinking as it is applied to every day problems. A first in geometry classes was the study of vector analysis.

A new course in independent math study was offered to seniors who had completed analysis classes in their junior year. The three students who participated in this program explored new areas of math and worked on individual projects. They aided teachers in the preparation of a slide presentation on computer programming.

Industrial and business students learned basic math principles and functions needed for daily life in consumer and modern math classes. Topics covered included household budgeting, computation of insurance premiums and filing personal income tax returns. Teachers utilized many visual aids to supplement normal classroom instruction.

WAVE mechanics are stressed as physics students Mike Hays and Paul Robinson utilize the motion ripple tank in a class experiment.

Chemistry, Biology Focus On Qualitative Experiments

METHODS of analysis were emphasized in every branch of the science department. Students gained general knowledge through extensive use of laboratory apparatus.

General biology students utilized microscopes in the study of how organisms are related to their environment. From these observations, students drew conclusions about the physiology and anatomy of organisms. Students also searched for a better understanding of conservation and ecology. In addition to general biology, lab biology offered further study of cell structures and the life process through the dissection of specimens.

The first year chemistry course stressed the acquisition of skills directed toward applying "natural" principles through experimentation.

Organic and inorganic chemistry was studied by advanced chemistry students. Qualitative and quantitative experiments reinforced knowledge gained from lectures dealing with chemical properties. Many of the advanced students entered winning projects in the Metropolitan Science Fair.

Thermal expansion experiments involving solids, liquids, and gases were performed by physics students. The class approached science on a theoretical level, observing the nature of light and studying the physical properties of matter.

Gym Students Experience Challenges Of Competition

VERSATILITY was the key to this year's physical education program. A broad curriculum provided students with the opportunity to strengthen their motor skills.

As in the past, swimming was the focal point of this year's program. Students were taught swimming basics and water safety rules. Advanced swimmers found themselves involved in lifesaving techniques, while water polo and ballet served as recreational outlets. For the first time, advanced classes coordinated a production number to the music of Burt Bacharach.

Gym schedules were also well rounded, with students participating competitively in badminton, volleyball, archery, tennis, basketball and softball. Uneven parallel bars, the balance beam, the rope and the trampoline allowed students to demonstrate their skills requiring agility.

"Rescue Annie" joined health students again and inabled them to practice first aid skills learned in class. Students acquired these skills through not only class discussion, but through movies and practice, with fellow students serving as victims, also. A study of one's self was also made. Man's physical, emotional, and mental compositions were investigated. Skits were performed in an attempt to give students further insight into human personalities.

Industrial Students Prepare For Apprenticeships

INCREASED interest in vocational classes expanded this year's industrial arts program. Over 1300 students participated in classes offering new approaches and advanced techniques in machine shop, electronics and advanced auto mechanics.

Advanced machine metal working students had the opportunity this year to operate the accurate Stroke Shaper and Vernier Height Gage. School expenditures in the machine metal fabrication classroom exceeded those allocated for all other classes with the exception of the pool. Contact with these machines helped metal fabrication students attain apprenticeship immediately after graduation.

Emphasis was placed on brake service, electrical adjustment and management of a repair shop as students in Auto Mechanics III and IV increased their knowledge and skills related to the automotive repair area.

Electronics, power mechanics, and auto mechanics classes increased their period time to allow students to delve deeper into their study of schematic readings, service literature, and electrical theory.

Electrical projects helped to provide basic electricity students with a broad understanding of electrical theory and its practical application. Instructions dealing with house wiring, automotive ignition and electrical systems prepared students for careers in the electrical and electronics industry.

Development and construction of drawings as used in the building trades were the major projects of the Architectural drafting classes. Drafting design students increased their knowledge in the area of special machine design as a new class was added to the drafting department. Advanced mechanical drawing broadened their skills in designing and detailing.

Business Classes Include College Bound Students

BUSINESS education classes were extended to prepare students for immediate vocational employment or approaching college education. Personal typing and notehand were introduced, enlarging the business curriculum to serve the college-bound student.

Effective and abbreviated notemaking principles were stressed in notehand. Student lectures and reports were given to allow fellow class members to exercise their newly acquired skills. The regular shorthand classes combined speed and methods to produce mailable transcripts.

Typing techniques were emphasized in both personal typing and typing I and II. Personal typing students worked toward accuracy appropriate for personal use, while typing I and II students acquired speed in the skillful manipulation of the typewriter.

Record balancing and checkwriting were all part of the special project performed by the accounting cycle of a business.

Office machines class was aimed at developing an efficient method of operating business machines. Students utilized printing calculators, stencil duplicators, and dictaphones in completing class exercises.

Business English students participated in a group letterwriting project which applied the practical mechanics of effective business correspondence.

EXPERIENCE in the computerized business field is gained by Jeanette Portuesi, ABOVE, in office practice, as she listens to a dictation tape and types a letter.

Co-op Offers Previews Of The Business World

PROJECTION into the world of future vocations was the aim of this year's co-op program. The cooperative occupational training program provided students with an earn-while-you-learn opportunity to advance both their academic and practical skills.

Students could apply for placement in four areas: office, retailing, nursing and trade and industry. Prior to placement, students were required to meet basic qualifications and to agree to assume the responsibilities of his job. Interviews were arranged with stiff competition among prospective employees. Throughout the year, students attended related classroom instruction and completed weekly work records.

Credit was received for all on-the-job study, with grades determined from employer progress reports. Beside the experience acquired, trainees also found a boost in their weekly earnings. Wages were paralleled with the student's ability and state and federal laws.

While functioning as members of the business world, co-op students still managed to remain active in school and social affairs. In addition to attending a conference in April and participating in state-wide skill competition, the office co-op club sponsored the annual Christmas formal. Both nurses and office co-op clubs hosted candy sales. All participants were encouraged to attend an Employer-Employee banquet in May and to assist in the planning of the orientation program scheduled for next year's co-op students.

New Courses Increase Homemaking Skills

AWARENESS was the primary goal of this year's homemaking department. Both boys and girls participated in a variety of new classes to increase their knowledge of homemaking skills.

Three new classes were added to the curriculum. Family living and child development alternated semesters in order to give students a broader knowledge of the child and his family. Family living was aimed at helping students make a success of their future marriages. Child development stressed the important years from birth to age six. Tailoring and design, a two-year occupational training class offered a job cooperative situation during the second year.

Singer Slant Needle machines were introduced in the department in order to help students in comprehensive home economics I and II add decorative designs to their finished clothing projects. These students also tackled special problems in the preparation and serving of foods.

Decoupage, drapery making and transparencies were effective in illustrating current units of study, which both teachers and students found beneficial to the department.

Underpriviledged children were delighted with toys received at a community Christmas party supervised by the child development classes. All home economics classes combined their skills to produce a variety of gifts and refreshments.

Improved Government Sparks Student Action

CHANGE was the key word for this year's new form of student government. Representation was broadened as each social studies class elected an Assembly member, increasing general participation to 125.

The duties once handled by a sole vice president were divided into two specific offices: the first vice president, concerned with student policies and problems; second vice president, with social activities. Recording and corresponding secretaries replaced the former single office. Newly created committees, such as the Caucus and the Round Table, encouraged student involvement.

An open membership policy, with no grade point average required, was put into effect for general representatives. Meeting twice monthly, participants in student government reported the minutes of the meetings to their individual social studies classes. Through this representation, students voiced their complaints about such problems as inadequate parking facilities, resulting in the opening of more parking lots.

Change also occurred in the types of activities planned by the Student Assembly. Homecoming festivities were expanded with activities ranging from a chariot race to a burger bash. The annual Cinderella Ball, taken out of the school for the first time, was held at Nardo's Country House. Assembly members sold a record number of 300 tickets for the dance.

Combining service with fun, the Christmas Food Drive brought in over 1000 cans. The spirit of competition ran high among the classes, with the winning senior class attending a rock concert. Other activities included raising money for a Peace Corps school and establishing an EDHS chapter of Project Headline, a crisis center for teens.

Learning Center Staff Aids Student Research

LENDING assistance to the growing enrollment of EDHS, 30 audio visual students and 25 library aids performed various duties, such as shelving and checking out materials, producing new tapes and supplying rooms with equipment. These services enabled them to become an integral part of the academic scene.

Aiding Mr. George Saboonjian, Mr. Kevin Zaner was instated as an Audio Visual Technician. Together, their activities included producing materials and scheduling equipment. Added responsibilities were placed upon the A.V. staff when the Polaroid ID camera was used in producing photo membership cards. This camera involved an automatic process by which the picture was taken, developed, and laminated within the camera.

An informative tape and slide program which was produced by members of the library staff highlighted the orientation of 40 sophomore social studies classes to the Learning Center. A number of new microfilms replaced bulky magazines and over 400 books were added to the library's collection.

The duties of the A.V. and library staffs steadily increased due to the innovation of EPIC, the new English program. Over 500 students utilized the Learning Center, and an average of 40 pieces of A.V. equipment were used per day.

Clubs' Services Add Depth To EDHS Activities

SERVICE in the school, in the community, and for the individual, was provided by the Office Assistants, Ushers Keyettes and Campus Life clubs.

Comprised of 70 members, the Office Assistants worked in the attendance or counseling offices. Duties of the attendance office workers included keeping a daily record of absences and compiling an absence summary list. Students who worked in the counseling office delivered passes, answered telephones and took counseling appointments. Students, chosen on the basis of scholastic average and attendance, could request to be scheduled as an office assistant.

The new uniforms worn by the Usherettes this year consisted of white, long-sleeve blouses and green jumpers. To raise money for these uniforms the club sponsored a two night program featuring Edward Snedecker, a clairvoyant. Members of the club ushered and handed out programs at various activities, including PTA conferences, school plays, band and choir concerts, Shenanigans, and commencement exercises.

The Keyettes club, a girl's branch of the Kiwanis Key club, gave service to the community. A Valentine party was held at St. Marc's Lutheran Church for physically and mentally handicapped children. During Easter vacation the club also visited Martha T. Berry Hospital.

Discussing solutions for contemporary problems, members of the Campus Life club provided service for the individual. Young people attending these meetings found fellow students willing to listen to their problems and offer advice.

Organizations Stimulate Advanced Applications

PROBLEMS ranging from difficult chess moves to salvaging our ravaged environment formed the basis of several EDHS organizations. The math, chess, engineering, ecology and chemistry clubs encouraged student curiosity in various fields of academics, science and technology.

Visiting the Intermediate School District to observe the use of computers in grading and record keeping, members of the math club made extensive studies of computer programming. Weekly meetings featured various speakers, including a faculty member from U of D, who described careers in mathematics. Learning efficiency and gaining enjoyment in the solution of difficult mathematical problems, club members also participated in math games and worked equations.

The chess club, which placed second in last year's EML competitions, held practice tournaments twice weekly in preparation for the competition this spring. Club dues furnished helpful books, game equipment, and new green and white patches emblazoned with the symbol of a knight.

Participating in their own research, the eight members of the engineering club, gained knowledge in several fields of engineering activity. Individual members worked on designing a connecting hallway on the third floor, developing a non-skid brake system, observing the effect of food preservatives on mice, and researching a machine for heart massage. Tours of the GM Tech Center and the Wayne State College of Engineering were also planned.

Working to preserve our environment, the ecology club raised money through the sale of stickers and buttons. These funds were used to place a trash can in the school field and to print flyers on detergents and phosphates. For several weeks the club maintained a collection center for the bottle recycling project sponsored by Wayne State University.

The chemistry club did its part for pollution control by compiling an extensive pamphlet on the many facets of pollution. Visits were planned to the Chemistry and Biology departments of Michigan State, Wayne and Oakland colleges.

Practical Knowledge Gained For Professions

PREPARING for future vocations and learning useful arts, members of the Future Teachers, Future Nurses, Shamrock Broadcasting and Craft clubs utilized their newly acquired skills in many projects.

The Future Teachers club assisted Mrs. McCullough, the speech therapist, in record keeping. They also helped special education students to increase their participation in the classroom. When the Erin building closed in late February, the Future Teachers gave a get-acquainted party to welcome the special education students to this building. During their weekly meetings, club members worked to pass the millage vote and heard speakers describe college life and teaching careers.

The Future Nurses visited several nursing schools to observe classrooms and learn what programs were offered. At the monthly meetings members saw films and heard from the Red Cross and Project Hope. Interested girls also worked with a young boy in a patterning program, a new type of physical therapy to develop the muscles of the physically handicapped.

Shamrock Broadcasting club scheduled students to broadcast the daily announcements. Members explored careers in mass communication, visiting WXYZ radio. There they spoke to Jack Hays, then on the air, toured various TV studios, and met several newscasters. An informative tour of the Spark School of Broadcasting was also planned. To raise money for these types of activities, the SBC held a poster sale, selling a variety of contemporary posters.

Beading, candle-making, and tie-dying were just a few of the arts learned by the newly formed Craft club. During spring break, members visited Ann Arbor to buy unusual beads and planned to attend an Arts and Crafts Fair.

RESEARCH by members of the UN club prepares them for a mock General Assembly meeting.

Understanding Broadened By Clubs' Social Activities

SOCIAL awareness was the primary concern of the United Nations, Social Studies and Human Relations clubs. Through involvement in projects dealing with inner-city strife, the international dilema and campus life, members expanded their outlook on society.

Representing the countries of Belgium and Italy, the UN club participated in a three day mock session of the United Nations at the University of Detroit. Twenty students researched topics for two months before sending ten delegates to this assembly. Pop and candy sales were held to defray the cost of commuting to U. of D.

The Social Studies club toured various campuses such as the University of Michigan, Michigan State and Oakland University, to acquaint students with the social and academic aspects of college. These trips occured on Saturdays and usually lasted from early morning to late afternoon. Hosting a hay ride, members of the club raised money to send two students to the capitol for the Washington Classroom, a course designed to familiarize them with the Senate and House of Representatives.

Promoting better understanding between minority groups, the Human Relations club, as in previous years, worked for United Neighbors on Saturdays at St. Patrick's Parish. A group of six students volunteered for this project each week from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. Club members, along with other students, passed out buttons and collected money for muscular dystrophy victims during the Shamrock for Dystrophy 1971 drive. Other events included a Halloween dance which raised over $100 for UNICEF and a Christmas dance to assist Rose Bell's United Neighbors service organization.

DISCUSSIONS with Mrs. Rose Bell, head of United Neighbors, helped Human Relations club members learn where their services could best be utilized.

Popular Clubs Provide Enjoyment Of The Outdoors

FOCUSING on nature and physical fitness, the Ski club and the newly formed Out-of-Doors club offered students a variety of athletic activities.

The Ski club, boasting a membership of 189 students, journeyed to Pine Knob or Alpine Valley each Wednesday, weather permitting. These ski excursions provided lessons, and equipment for beginning, intermediate, and advanced skiers. The annual ski weekend was held at The Pinnacles Ski Resort, Gaylord, Michigan, on February 12, 13, and 14. This new location provided the 46 members attending with many activities, including skiing, snowmobiling, sleigh rides, and pizza parties.

Establishing another branch of the Out-of-Doors club, first organized at Kelly Junior High, Mr. DeGutis and the 16 club members introduced a new organization to the high school. The purpose of this club was to develope an appreciation of nature, to learn methods of survival in the wilderness, and to create a spirit of fellowship. To accomplish these goals, the members planned various activities notably a strenuous winter camp weekend at Proud Lake and a spring trip by horseback across the northern part of Michigan. Several shorter hikes and side trips were also planned to build up the stamina and skill needed for these longer excursions.

Enthusiasts Utilize Active Athletic Organizations

PHYSICAL stamina was essential for membership in the Timettes, Girl's Athletic Association, and Varsity clubs. Touching all areas of EDHS sports, these organizations provided students with many athletic activities.

GAA was involved in volleyball, basketball, bowling, and other sports on Tuesdays and Wednesdays after school. Twenty Association members attended an EML camp for three days in late February, participating in winter sports. In the spring, an intramural swim competition, with sophomores challenging juniors and seniors, was held. The softball field was also used for a track and field day.

The 63 member Varsity club, also known as the E club, viewed a University of Michigan football game in October. To defray the cost of wrestling mats and provide money for additional equipment and scholarships, the club hosted a Detroit Lions vs. EDHS faculty basketball game. Members also sold popcorn and coke during Varsity and JV basketball games.

The Timettes were an integral part of the swim meets. Timing of individual swimmers and teams and promotion for each competition were among the girl's activities. Replacing the jumper pant dresses designed last year, the girls chose new uniforms consisting of white blouses and kelly green culottes. These new uniforms were worn not only during the meets, but also throughout the day to advertise the meet.

Vocal Displays Highlight Drama, Debate, Forensics

VERBAL communication was the focal point of activities sponsored by the Pit and Balcony, Debate and Forensics clubs. Through plays, readings, debates and competitions, club participants express their creative talents.

The Pit and Balcony Drama club sponsored several plays this year, including "The Insect Comedy" and "Blithe Spirit." "Be-deckin' the Halls," a one-act comedy skit, was performed for the East Detroit elementary schools during the Christmas season. Club members met once a week to discuss upcoming plays and plan a trip to the Shakespeare Theater in Stratford, Ontario. Individual members also signed up to usher for Sunday matinees at Wayne's Bonstelle Theater. Nearly twenty members were initiated into the International Thespian Society, a select group of student dramatists.

East Detroit's debate team, which was a member of the Middle Macomb League, visited Wayne University in early fall for a debate workshop. This year's debate topic concerned the federal government's involvement in air and water pollution control. From October to December, the team competed with neighboring schools. In January they attended the district debates, winning fourth place. During the year, the debate club held sample debates for adult education classes and students interested in electing a debate course.

Students who participated in the Forensics club worked to master effective vocal communications through serious and humorous readings, story-telling, radio-newscasting, extemporaneous speaking, oratory and multiple or one-act play readings. Students were given opportunities to compete with others in the spring Forensics festival and in district competition. Outstanding speakers were presented with awards at the annual spring Debate and Forensics Banquet.

Journalism Excels in Yearbook, Shamrock

REVISED formats of both school publications encouraged student representation and interest. Up-coming and recent events were stressed as the Shamrock increased its frequency of publication to weekly and sometimes bi-weekly. The newspaper's size was decreased to cut the cost of production. A greater amount of color was included in the '71 East Detroiter along with eight additional pages.

The two staffs were composed of 44 students, 20 of whom were editors who worked steadily designing layouts, writing and pasting copy, and meeting important deadlines. Five student photographers assisted in taking pictures and developing them in the school dark room.

With the sabbatical leave of Mr. John Enwright, James Manos assumed sponsorship of the yearbook for 1971. Main duties of publications were undertaken by the Editor-in-Chief, Norma Kuzmaul.

The annual Cover Girl contest was sponsored by the Shamrock staff as a fund raising project. Money collected in this event was used in the production of the Senior magazine.

Selected staff members of both school publications attended educational conferences during the year. A seminar in St. John's, Michigan was attended by five members of the East Detroiter staff in late October. Ideas and techniques in copy, layout design, and photography were featured. The Detroit Student Press Association and Free Press sponsored a convention in which members of the Shamrock staff participated. A tour of the Detroit News, along with lectures from several reporters and editors were included in this event.

A record breaking 2,000 yearbooks were sold and the newspaper had an average weekly circulation of 3,300 copies.

Leadership, Involvement Encouraged by NHS

CHARACTER, service, leadership, and scholarship were the four qualities required in National Honor Society members.

A branch of the national group, East Detroit's Honor Society received its charter in 1967. Since then membership has grown to encompass over 150 students.

Prospective members were first chosen on the basis of a 3.0 scholastic average. Each interested student who had maintained this average was then asked to complete a form on his extracurricular activities and community involvement. Recommendations were also required from two teachers and two sponsors. Final selections were made by Mrs. Kathleen Slebodnik and a five member faculty committee.

Selectees were honored at a ceremony in late May, receiving a NHS pin and certificate. After the initiation a banquet was held for the students and their parents.

The National Association of Secondary School Principals, founder of the NHS, annually provides one thousand dollar scholarships for 180 Society members. This year each branch could suggest two of its best qualified members for scholarship consideration. Chosen as the 1971 candidates, upon counselor recommendation and the decision of a faculty committee, were Mona Mort and Colleen Trinkley.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY (Senior members only): Linda Barrett, Tom Becker, Debbie Cunningham, Linda Czarnomski, Diane Femminineo, Chris Gardinal, Kenn Gugel, Judy Haddad, Carl Holtz, Ron Ionetz, Carol Jackson, Gloria Jenio, Sandra Kenward, Chris Kiefer, Karen Krasicky, Norma Kuszmaul, Sandra Landino, Deborah Lantzy, Debbie McBride, Denise Misson, Sue Molitoris, Scott Morrow, Mona Mort, Larry Murphy, Debbie Novak, Mike Osaer, Darlene Pappas, Linda Pompi, Kathy Quenneville, Lynn Ross, Sandy Sacharski, Danielle Sass, Ruth Schulz, Art Schumacher, Brian Scopel, Kathie Sims, Jayne Smiley, Judy Stahl, Elleen Straitor, Gari Straughen, Grace Taormina, William Thomas, Colleen Trinkley, Dennis Walden, Mary Jane Watchowski, Chris White, Pam Wright.

ED Cheerleaders Arouse Shamrocks' Team Spirit

VIBRANT cheers, pompom routines and skits led the way to the Grand National Championship of the Midwest for the 11 girls of the 1970-71 cheerleading squad.

Attending Camps All American in Hartford, Michigan this past summer, the girls competed as a team and on individual levels. As a team, EDHS cheerleaders received first place in the competition finals and senior Karen Linenger took fourth place in the individual session.

With the temporary retirement of Miss Dorothy Demrick as sponsor, Miss Kathleen Huhn temporarily sponsored the squad during football season. Most of the planning responsibilities, however, were taken on by the tri-captains Rita Girard, Karen Linenger and Diane Oliverio.

Following tradition, the cheerleaders organized a pep club and held several promotional drawings during basketball season. Selling pennants, carnations, and buttons and sponsoring a bake sale at St. Basil Church helped cut the cost of uniforms and camp expenses.

The new "game-day" monogramed pant suits and the girls' basketball uniforms were designed by the squad and made by Eveann Promesso, an alumnus cheerleader.

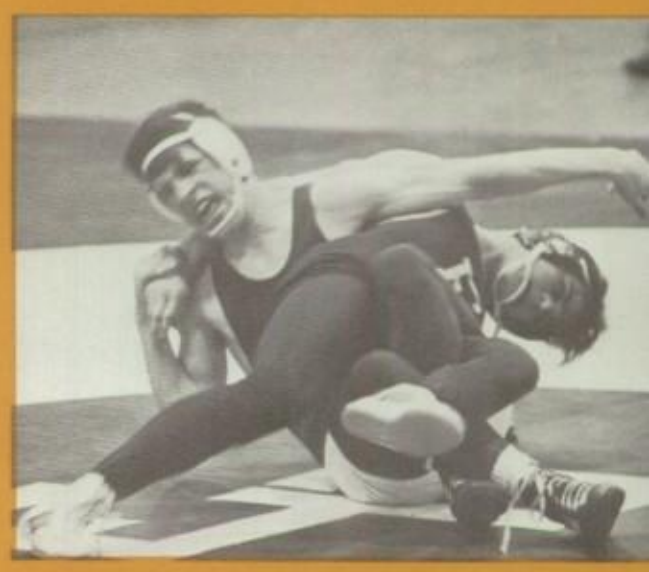
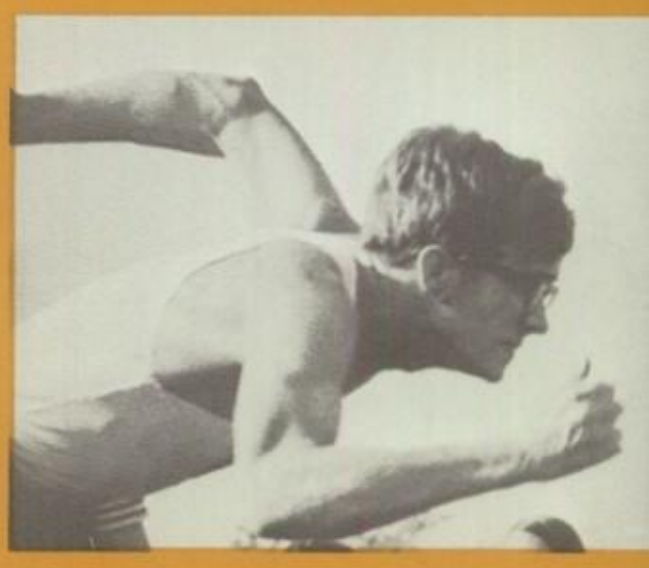
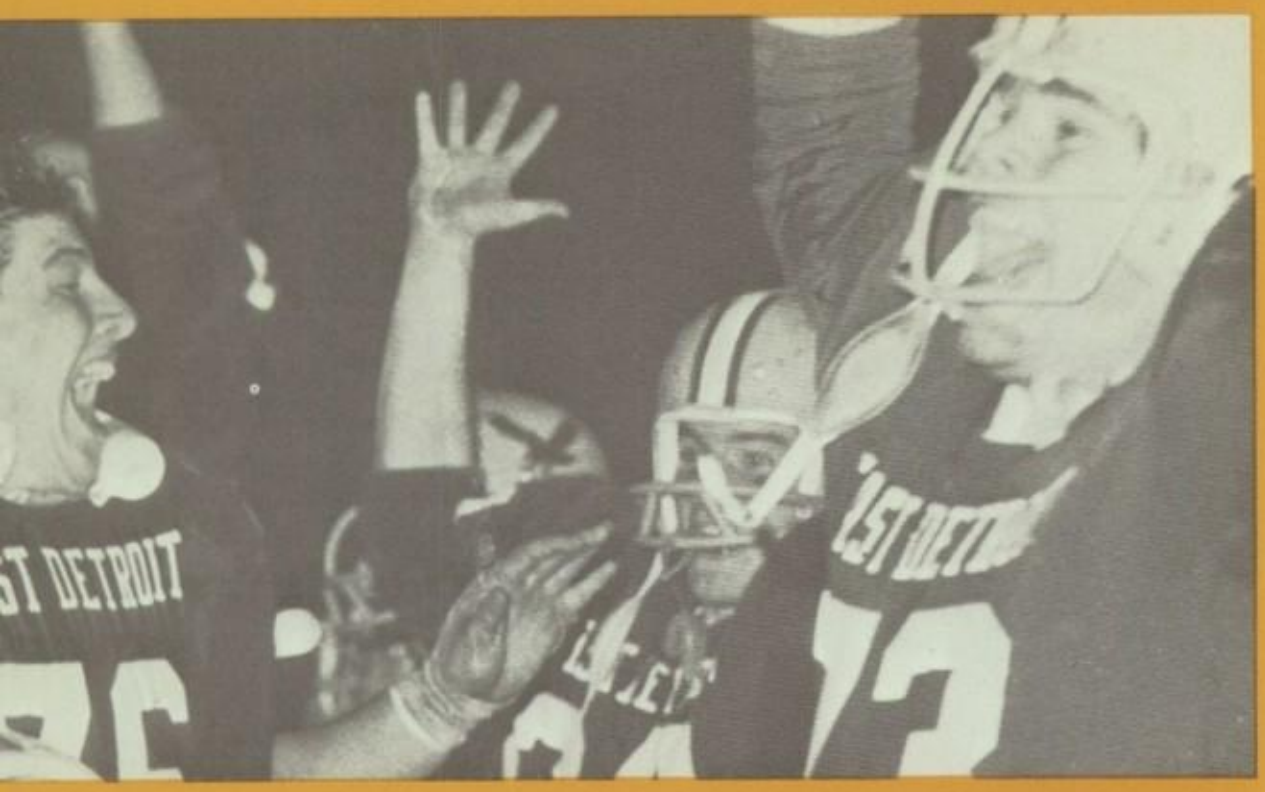
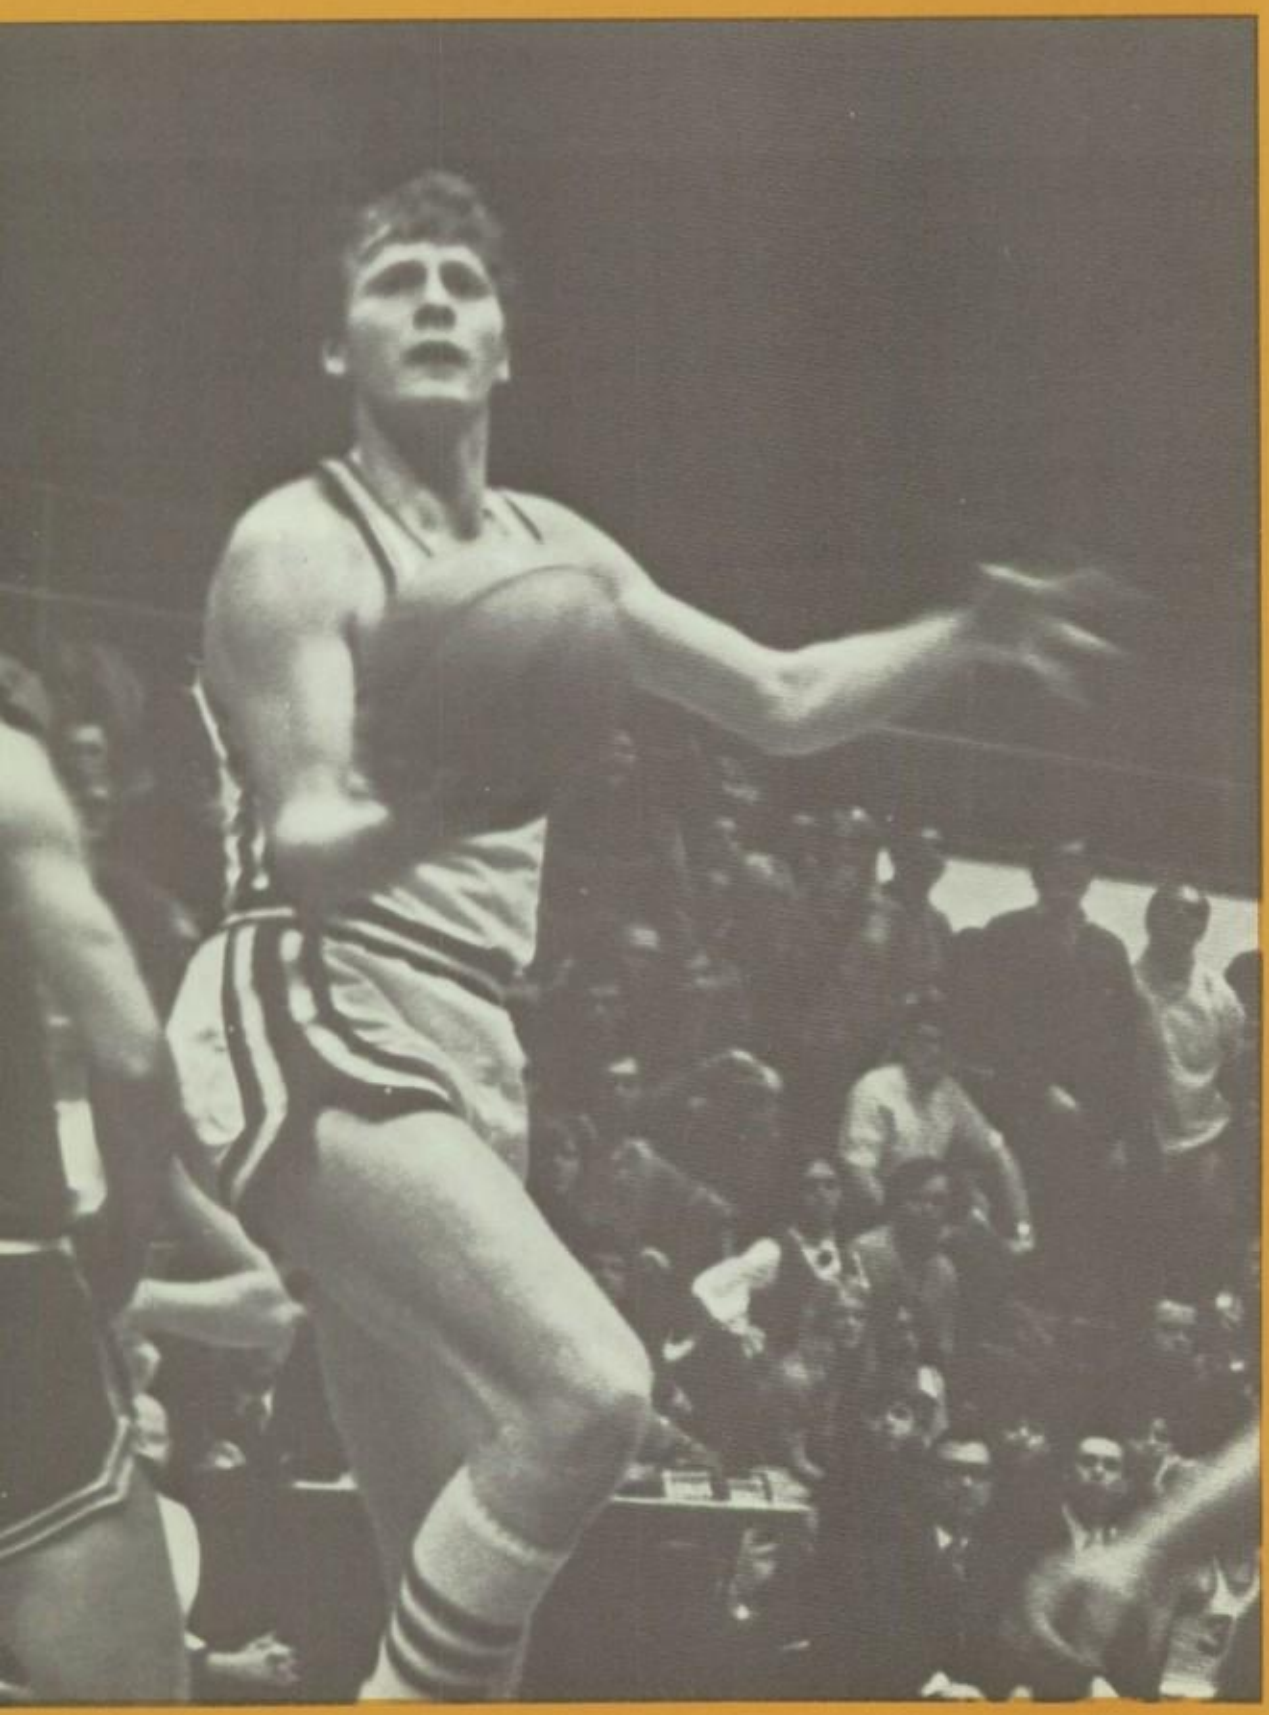
PORTRAITS of victory and defeat were painted on the faces of EDHS athletes. Sports took on new and exciting dimensions as 1970–71 wrestlers, swimmers, and Junior Varsity cagers became Eastern Michigan League champions.









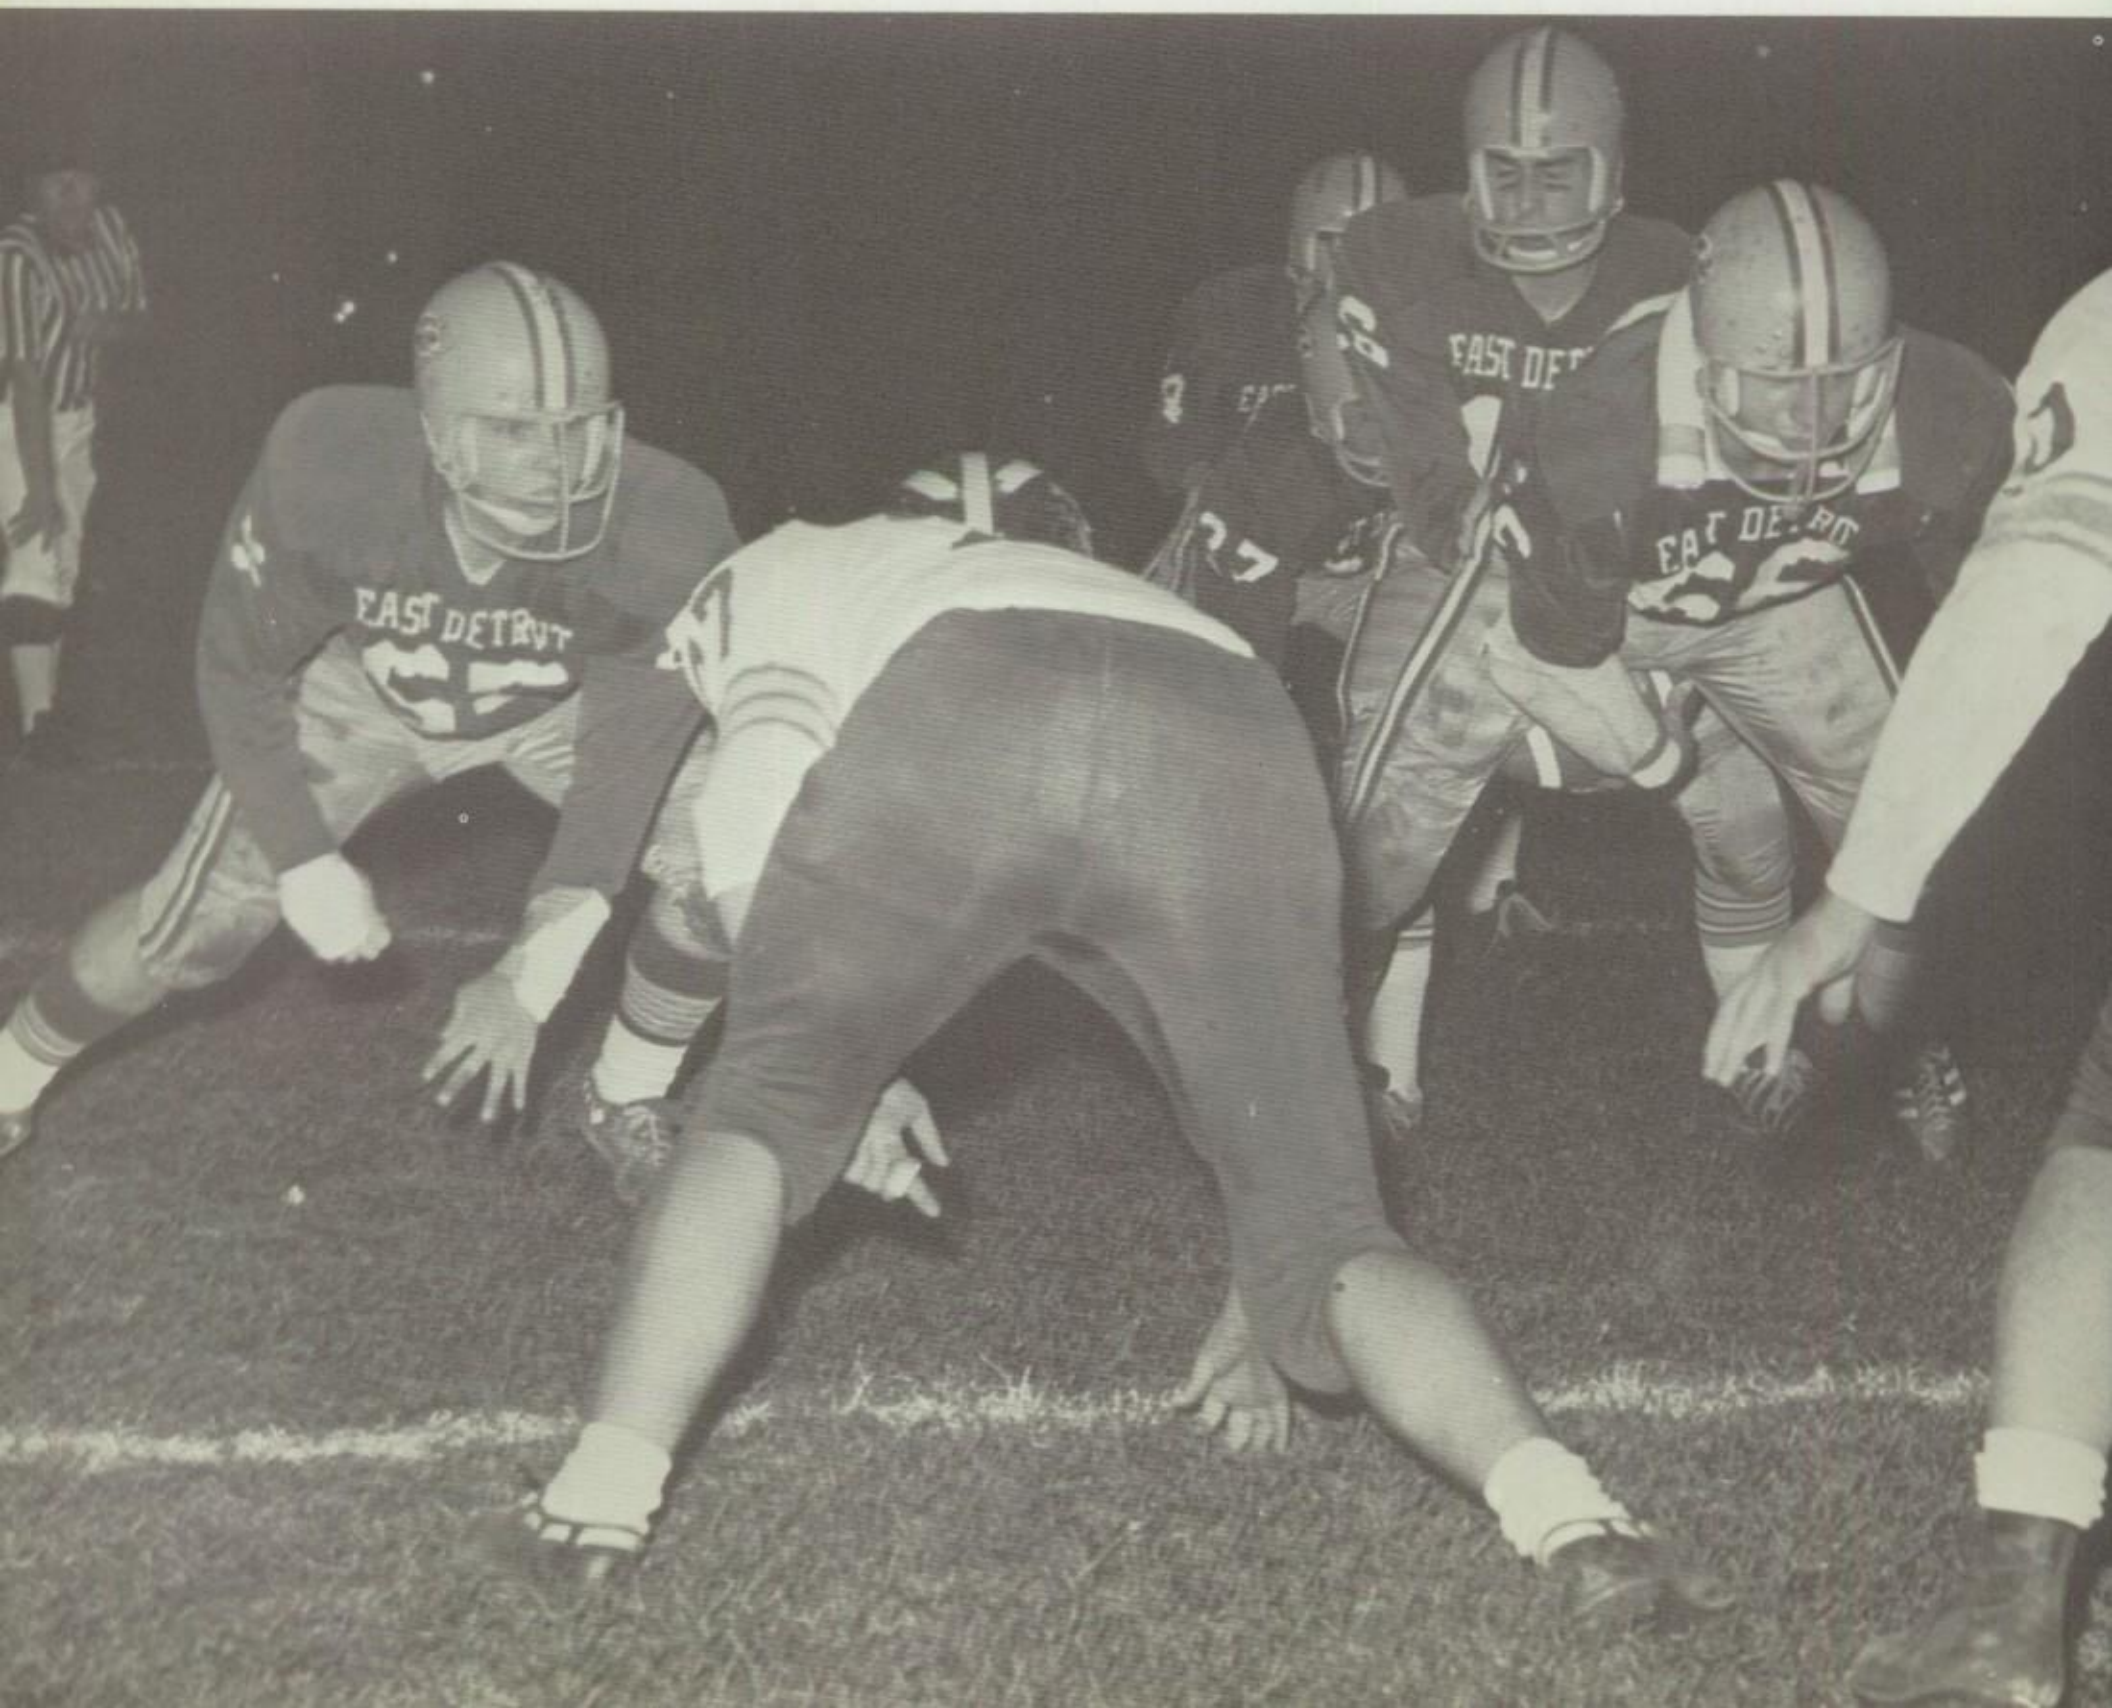
Irish Lose EML Crown to Mt. Clemens Team

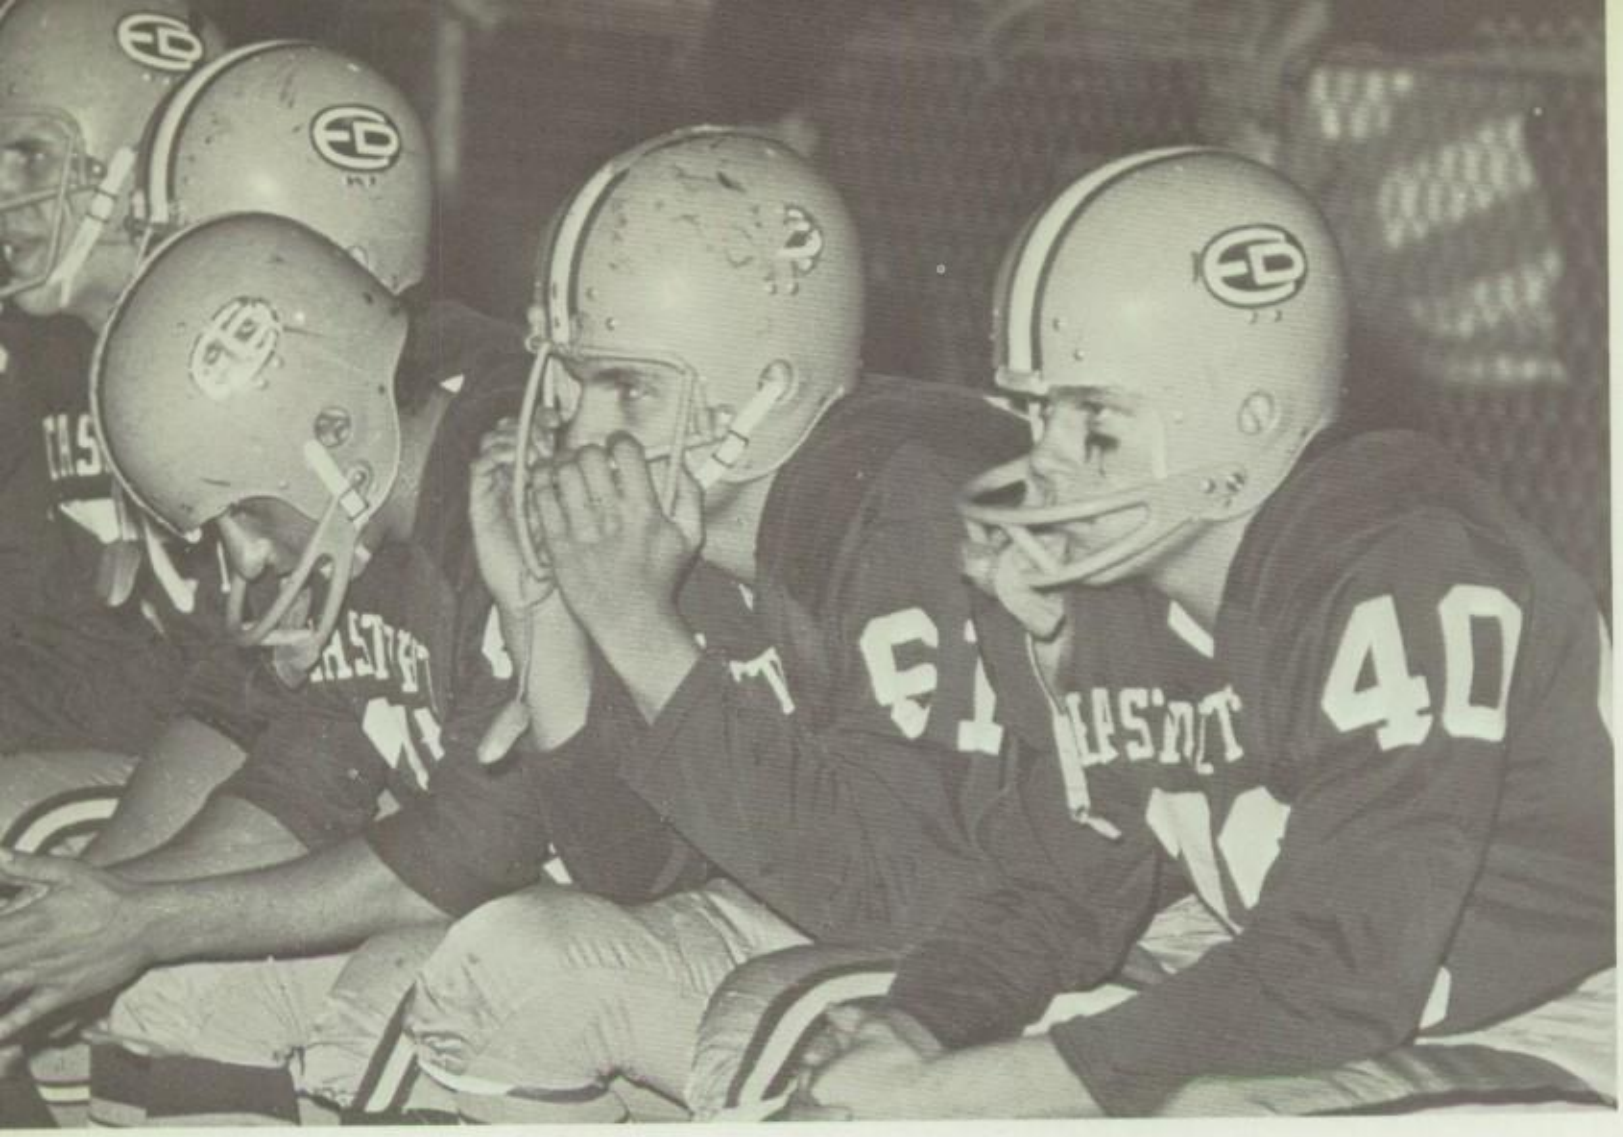
DEFENSE was the strength of the Irish this year, which finished with a disappointing season of three wins and six losses and posted a 2-3 EML record.

During many games, the tightly knit defense kept the Shamrocks' victory hopes alive. Opponents were held to just 147 total points. Even our last year's EML Championship team gave up 162 points. Led by Co-Captain Rich Losh and most valuable player Chuck Ward they held the powerful Mt. Clemens Bathers to just 18 points and "state-ranked" Ferndale to 22. Twice, opponents were held to a single touchdown.

This effort was not enough, however, as our offense had a lack of scoring punch and failed to gain the much needed yardage. Twice, EDHS gridmen failed to cross the opposing teams' goal lines. One of the reasons behind such a dismal season was a shortage of experienced players as the squad was heavily laden with juniors. The green and white's record is also misleading as it fails to express how close we actually came to defending the EML crown. In three league games against Mt. Clemens, Northern and Roseville our team lost by a lone touchdown. The offense finally began picking up more points during the last few games as quarterback Larry Murphy established a formerly non-existent passing attack. Doug Stoyka, voted best back, ground out extra yardage and finished with over 600 yards rushing. We won two of our last three games which included an overwhelming victory of 47-14 over Port Huron.

Many team members deserve extra recognition but two individuals were particularly outstanding. Chuck Ward, safety, was the backbone of our defensive squad and was honored by being awarded the most valuable player trophy. Center John Fritsch played many of the games on one leg because of an injury early in the season. Even under these circumstances he was voted to the All-State second team. Both players received the honor of being elected to the All-EML Team.





HOPE is expressed on the faces of Jim Sape, Jim Balso, Art Schumacher, and Sal Cicala as they watch the games proceedings from the bench.

Junior Varsity Gridmen Display Running Talents

SPARKED by aggressive running and an adequate passing game the Junior Varsity football squad posted a three win, two loss record in league competition. This was good enough for a three way tie for second place with Roseville and Port Huron Northern in the EML.

Overall, the Irish compiled a .500 season with four wins and four losses. However, in total points, the JV team outscored their opponents 129 to 74. Also, in total yardage, the Shams almost doubled the opposition's output. The Green and White machine showed its true potential in handing EML champion, Mt. Clemens, their only defeat.

Offensive leader for the J.V.'s was Tim Smiley with six touchdowns and 785 yards, the highest running yardage in five years. Following was Mark Malta with four touchdowns and Vito Meatte with 22 points.

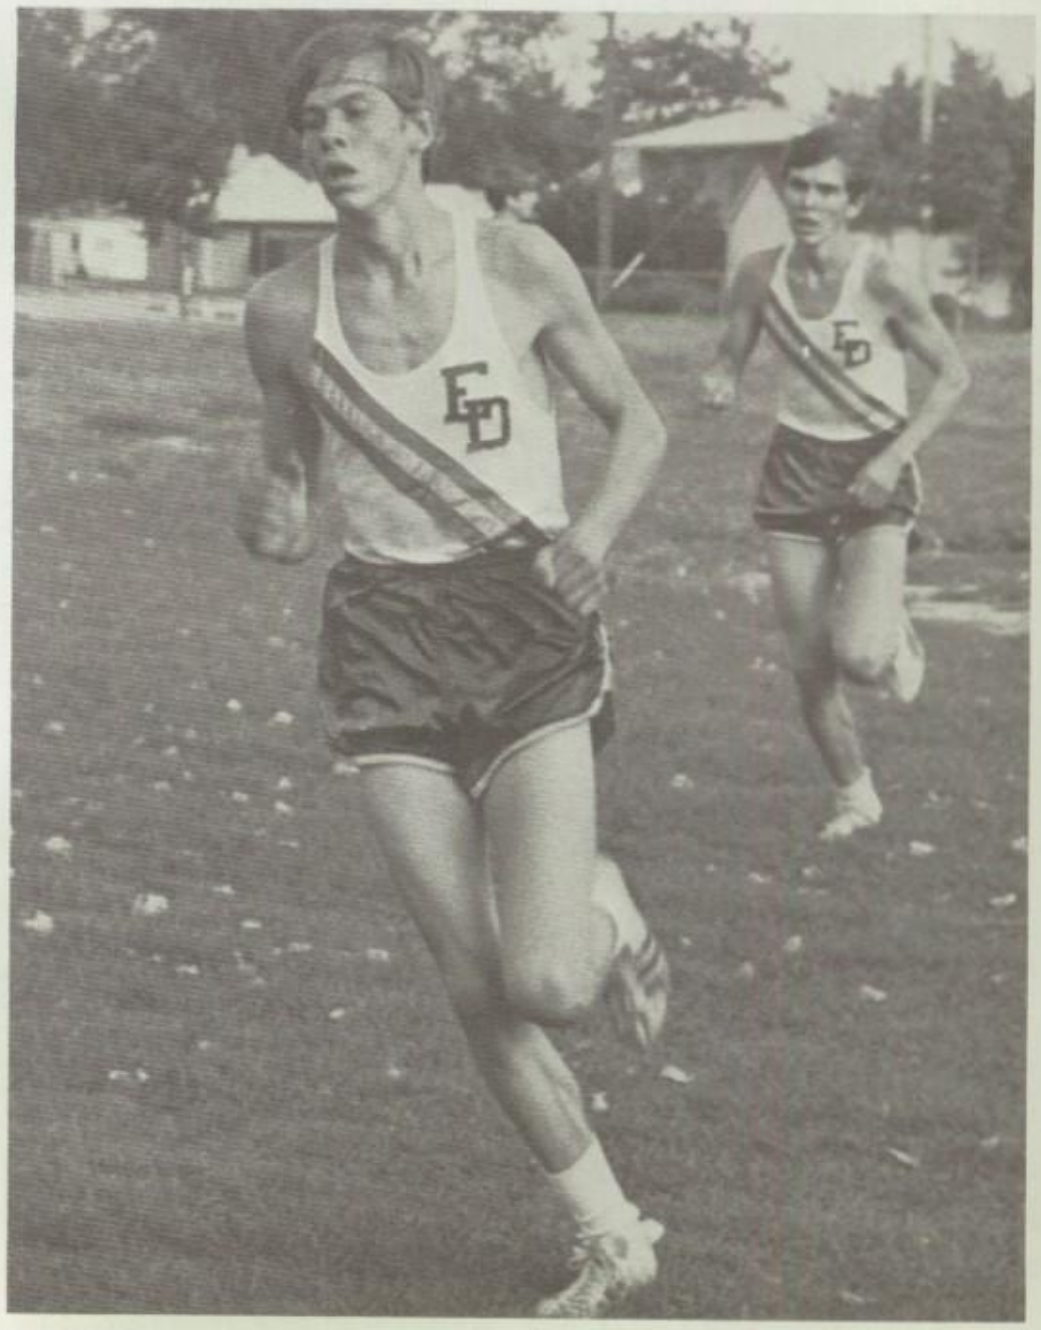
Good Individual Efforts Brighten Rough Season

RALLYING around a determined senior and an exceptional junior runner, the East Detroit cross country team posted a five win, ten loss, one tie season with a 2-5-1 record in Eastern Michigan League competition.

Leading runner for the Harriers was junior Pelmer Gipson with seven first place finishes and a total of 21 points. Following close behind with six second place finishes was Daryl Bertram with 40 points. Together they provided a powerful 1-2 combination in capturing five wins. It was the lack of enough strong runners, though, that resulted in a disappointing season which had four games lost by one point.

The EDHS Harriers made a strong post-season showing in capturing second place at the Macomb County high school cross country invitational with fourth and seventh place finishes from Gipson and Bertram and a 12th place finish from Jon Schuster. The team also took third at the EML finals highlighted by Gipson's sensational first place finish, the only EDHS runner ever to have taken a first at finals. The season culminated in a sixth place finish at State Regionals.



DETERMINATION and stamina spell success for Harriers' Co-Captains Pelmer Gipson and Daryl Bertram as East Detroit strives to capture another cross country victory.

CHANGING coaches mid-season failed to shake the Shamrocks from their losing habits as for the second year in a row they posted a losing season with an 8–10 overall mark and a 6–4 league record. Coach Roberts was popular with both the students and players, yet with prospects of another losing team he resigned with the season just underway.

Filling the vacancy, Coach Brown took over with excellent credentials. Since transferring from Oakwood Junior High, he has compiled a fantastic 66–8 win-loss record and a string of five EML championships. Yet he failed to lead the floundering varsity basketball team to a winning season.

The cagers did not have an exceptional calibre of talent, but the record fails to indicate the team's true performance. The Sham's '71 schedule was perhaps the toughest one played in years. Eight of the opposing teams were either district tournament winners, or were rated among the state's top teams. The Shamrocks pulled surprising upsets against powerful Ferndale, 61–51, and Regional finalist, Warren Lincoln, 71–65.

Special acknowledgement should be given to Paul Meier, Carl Sass, Kevin Krass, and Bruce Tarnowski for their impressive personal accomplishments. Carl Sass was the team's strongest asset as he led the scoring with 225 points, and was top boardman with 209 rebounds. Team honors were given to Kevin Krass and Bruce Tarnowski for their whole-hearted attempts at both practice sessions and games.

JV Green Machine Rolls To Sixth Championship

HUSTLING was the key motion of the 1970-71 Reserves hich led to their sixth consecutive EML crown. Amassing an time high of 1181 points, the JV Cagers posted a 15-1 ason total and a 7-1 mark in EML competition.

The Irish continued their winning habits through a coaching ange which occurred in the sixth game. Taking over when r. Wayne Brown was elevated to the position of varsity ach, Mr. Pete Prestininzi was more than an adequate placement leading the team to another championship.

As an extension of last year's winning streak the Shams gan the season by remaining undefeated in their first 11 mes. In the second meeting with Port Huron Northern, the eserves' record of consecutive games won was broken at 27 th a dissappointing 78-70 loss. Exhibiting the pride and termination of true champions, the fighting Irish bounced ck to win their last four games, capturing the EML title in e last game with a decisive 95-75 victory over Port Huron.

Tankers Stroke To Share Of EML Crown

INCREASED confidence and talent more than made up for last year's inexperience as East Detroit's swim team shared first place honors with Stevenson in the Eastern Michigan League after earning a 5–1 EML mark and compiling an overall 14–3 record.

Team spirit and pride were integral facets of the squad's fine showing and encouraged many outstanding performances. In his second year of varsity swimming, Doug Stevens was recognized as one of the hardest workers and named the most valuable player. Besides being a member of the All–EML squad, he holds the pool record of 59.5 in the 100-yard battery event.

Senior Bob Tepass also qualified for the All–EML squad by either winning the event or setting a new varsity record when competing in the 100-yard freestyle. Special recognition was earned by junior divers Bob Wright and Mike Wruble. They placed sixth and ninth, respectively, in the county and were two of the twelve Macomb divers to compete in the state finals. During regular team competition, both proved equally talented as Bob captured six first place finishes and Mike took five.

"The most cherished team feat," stated Coach Dave Clark, "was winning the All-League 400-yard freestyle relay team award" and the four members, Larry Getty, Tom Cheney, Doug Happe and Doug Stevens, "were some of the best examples of the spirit carried by this year's squad."

Team Effort Produces Share Of EML Crown

REBOUNDING from last year's disastrous performance, the 1970–71 varsity wrestling team elevated themselves to the position of Eastern Michigan League co-champions. Sharing a 4–1 record with Utica Stevenson and posting an 8–6 overall mark, this was the first league title since the 1964–65 season.

The improvement of the squad can be cited to the return of eleven wrestlers from last year's team. With this added experience and a crop of dedicated sophomores, the matmen gained recognition as potent adversaries.

Well-represented in all weight divisions the Shamrocks were led by co-captains Spencer Gettig and Tom Delia with fourteen and eleven league victories respectively. Providing a strong base for the Irish with nine wins apiece were Mike Alfieri, Sam Delia, and Bill Stump.

The Shams were also powerful in extracurricular wrestling. At the EML meet, taking first in their weight category were Gettig and Delia. Alfieri, Stump, S. Delia and Mark Tripi also exhibited their abilities by taking second places.

At district playoffs Gettig again took a first, extending his streak to twenty-two straight wins. Also placing in the top ten were T. Delia with a second, Gary Wojtas a third, and Stump and Jerry Krukow with fourths. After qualifying for state finals, Gettig and T. Delia both suffered disappointing defeats.

Though losing two valuable wrestlers, next year's team should continue its domination of league play.

GRAPPLING with a Lakeview matman, Sammy Delia shows how he provided the extra punch needed by the Shams as one of this year's EML co-champions.

Cindermen's Hopes Based on Strong Distance Events

RELYING on a core of returning upperclassmen, the 1971 Varsity track team is looking for a conference championship.

Attempting to improve on last year's 5-3 mark and 3rd place finish, the Shamrock's strong point will be their distance events. Premier quarter-miler Ron Riley, who holds the county 440 mark, two-miler Daryl Bertram, Pelmer Gipson in the mile, and Rick Giles, a reliable 880 runner provide a good nucleus for the team. The mile relay of Giles, Bruce Dudek, Gipson, and Riley will also be a strong event.

Overall, the team is a young one with a large turnout of sophomores. The loss of two hurdlers through graduation will make that event a weak spot of the team. Lack of experience in sprints, pole vault, and high jump will also have to be overcome before a coordinated attack can be obtained.

Coach Dennis Wheeler feels Port Huron will be the team to beat in the EML. With true dedication and determination, the Irish have a good chance for a conference title.

Tennis Squad Bound For Success In '71 Season

HOPING for a recovery from last year's disastrous season in which the young and inexperienced tennis squad was troubled 0-8 in league play and 2-13 over-all, the '71 squad will enter the courts abounding with enthusiasm.

But the netmen's destiny appears brighter as Coach Roberts welcomes the return of nine seasoned lettermen. Among their ranks will be last year's most valuable player, Marty Jacobs. He is expected to take the helm of player leadership and pilot the Irish to a more fruitful year.

Backing up Marty Jacobs will be Brad Thompson, Bruce Bissonette, Larry Murphy and Doug Trimm. Coach Fred Roberts believes it is essential that these players perform to their potential in order to record the 1971 season as successful and reinstate the Irish as a formidable adversary in tennis.

Seasoned Veterans Bolster Hopes For Championship

ASTONISHING success was recorded by last year's baseball squad as they battled from a two-year lay-off and responded with an 11-6 won-lost total and 5-2 record in EML competition.

The Shamrocks displayed no uncertainties as they quickly joined the pace and asserted their prowess against more seasoned opposition. A no-hitter hurled by Eric Geister against Stevenson bolstered the confidence of the Irish as it was the second no-hit game tossed in fifteen years at EDHS.

Backing him up on the field were Don MacGillivray and Bob Hunwick. Don MacGillivray received recognition for his work on the field and at the plate by being voted as the All-League shortstop and the squad's Most Valuable Player. Bob Hunwick was honored for his performance behind the plate by being cited the Most Improved Player last season.

Continued success, Coach McKenzie points out, will depend on how Bruce Tarnowski fills the shoes of Geister as pitcher.

With the return of seven lettermen, including Bob Hunwick, Coach McKenzie feels that this year's squad will finish somewhere in the top three places in the league.

MOODS of many kinds were reflected on the faces of students as they made their way through the crowded halls of EDHS. The bewilderment of sophomores was easily recognizable by confident upperclassmen throughout the year, who not too long ago had the same problems themselves.

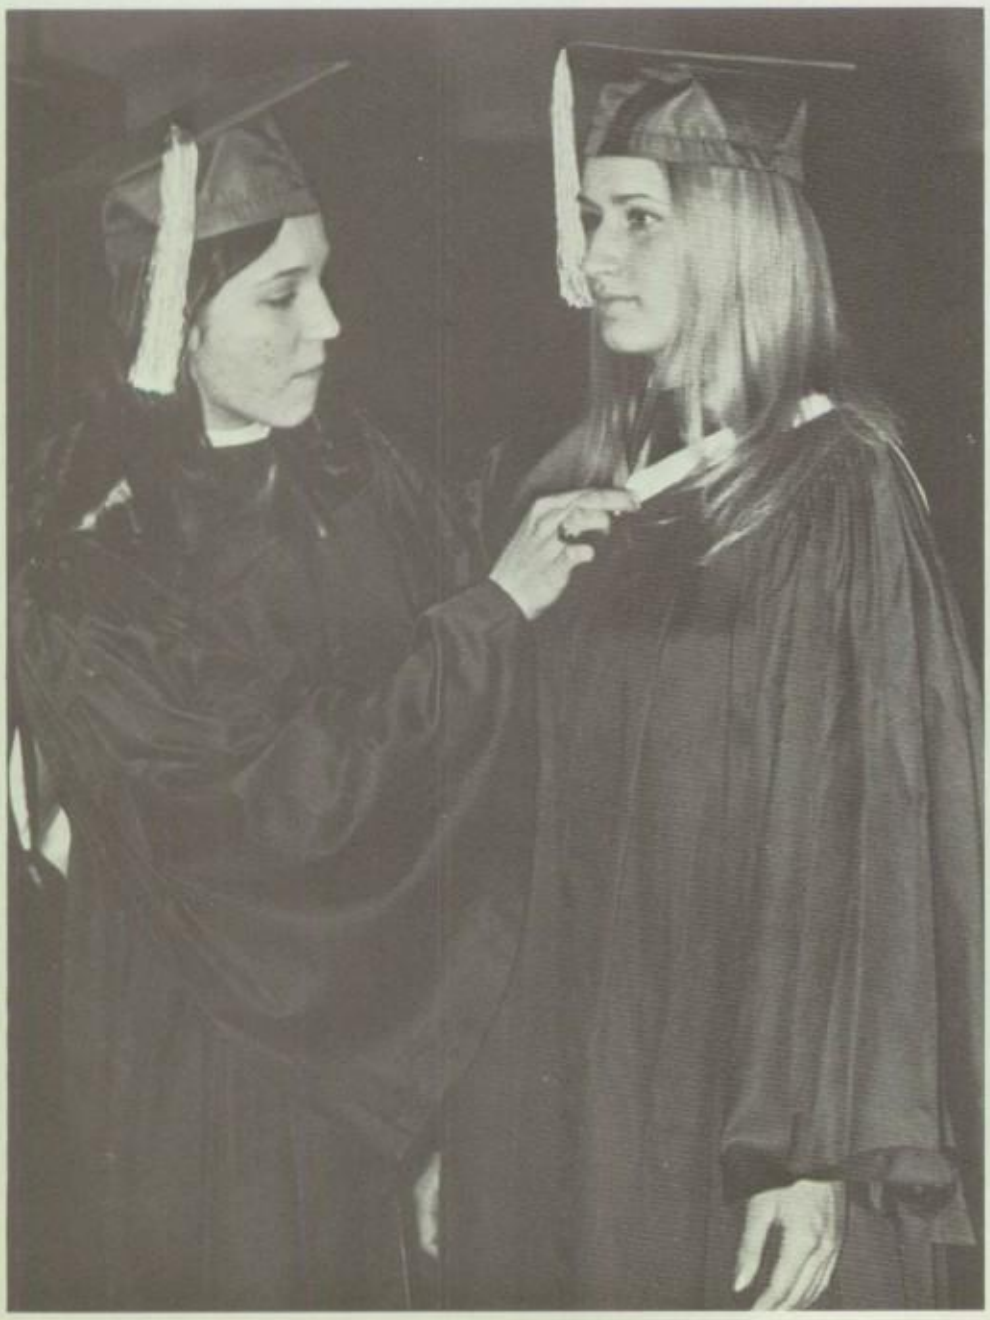
SALUTATORIAN

Karen, Irene Earn Top Scholastic Averages



LAST minute adjustments are made by Irene Andrzejczyk as she aids Karen Linenger before leading the class of 1971 at Cobo Hall.

HIGHEST scholastic honors will be bestowed upon two girls this year at the commencement exercises to be held at Cobo Hall in June.

Determination and hard work have earned Karen Linenger the title of Valedictorian for the Class of 1971. Despite her numerous activities, Karen was able to maintain an admirable 3.89 average during her high school years. Varsity cheerleading, student assembly, band and club meetings occupied much of her time, making her studies all the more difficult. Karen, in addition to being a member of the National Honor Society, is this year's recipient of the Daughters of the America Revolution Good Citizenship Award.

An equally commendable 3.81 average qualified Irene Andrzejczyk for the honor of Salutatorian. Irene has been an enthusiastic member of the Math club this past year. Math is one of her favorite subjects and she is thinking about making mathematics her major field of study.

Both girls are members of the Phi Beta Kappa Honor Society. To achieve this special honor a student must maintain an average of at least 3.6. Only English, social sciences, laboratory sciences and mathematics classes are considered when the averages are computed. Besides Irene and Karen, nine other honor graduates received this award.

There will be more students wearing the gold tassel and stole this year than ever before. A total of 106 East Detroit High School graduates have accumulated a scholastic average of 3.0 or better during high school.

THE PHI BETA KAPPA H NOR SOCIETY

juniors

IMAGES of the junior class were reflected in activities initiated by officers Gerry Morawski, president; Lori Tabbert, vice president; Marianne Caras, secretary; and Kathy Marrocco, treasurer. No longer blinded by inexperience, juniors were characterized by unique expressions of individuality.

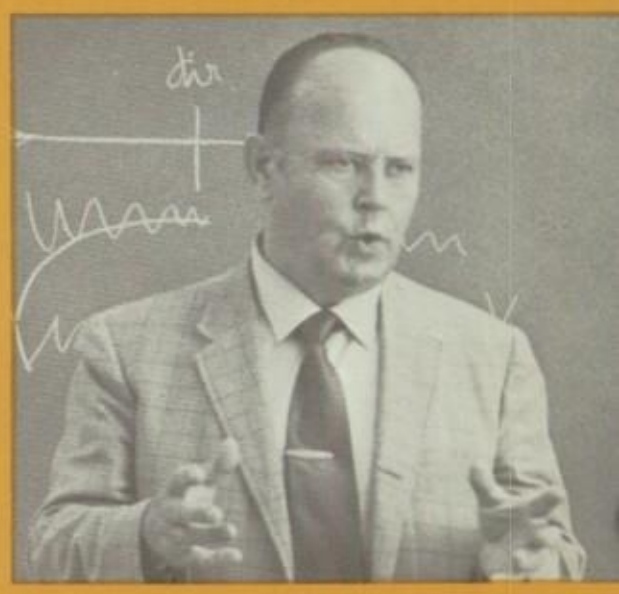
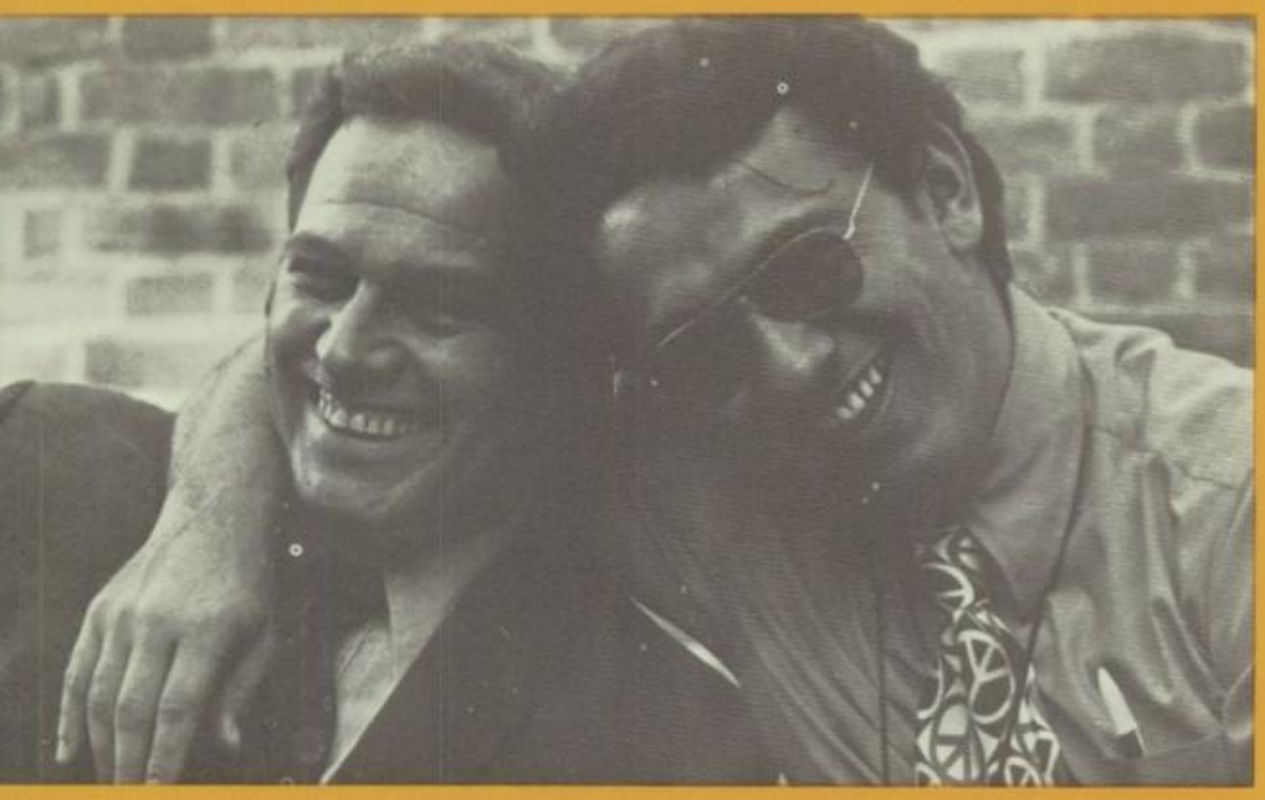
faculty

FEATURES of individuality illustrated the knowledge and humor expressed by the EDHS faculty. Through class presentations and school activities, teachers revealed serious and informal qualities essential to achieving purposeful results. The collage of faces depicted an impressive staff.





Changes Furnish New Goals And Opportunities

INTEGRAL revisions in curriculum and non-academic areas constituted the major concern of the administrative personnel for 1970–71. These variations led to the successful development of this year's school term.

The establishment of the Elective Program In Communications (EPIC), highlighted this year's course of study by increasing the approximate number of subjects available. This EPIC english system enabled students to choose from 45 different topics and schedule a class suited to their individual interests. "The success of this endeavor," according to Principal John Sanders, "prompted further use of a similar method for selecting social studies classes for the upcoming year."

A liberalized dress code was adopted, allowing girls to wear slacks and modifying the boys' hair regulations. "Student responsibility has worked out well in this regard," remarked Superintendent Michael Emlaw. "The students appear much happier with no pressing restrictions."

Determined efforts helped to bring about the passage of the millage renewal, which had been previously rejected during the month of December. This renewal of 13.5 mills, which extends over a three year period, is essential to the future curricula in order to continue the full educational operations required for adequate learning.

This year marked the death of the Erin building, a veteran structure from the city's history, which was no longer serviceable as a teaching center due to unsafe conditions. Availability of funds will decide whether Erin will be remodeled or reconstructed and at what time in the future.

Insofar as changes have occured, contributing to make 1970–71 an eventful school year, the years following will most likely display an even greater need for improvement. Cooperative efforts on the part of both the administration and the student body will alleviate much of the tension.

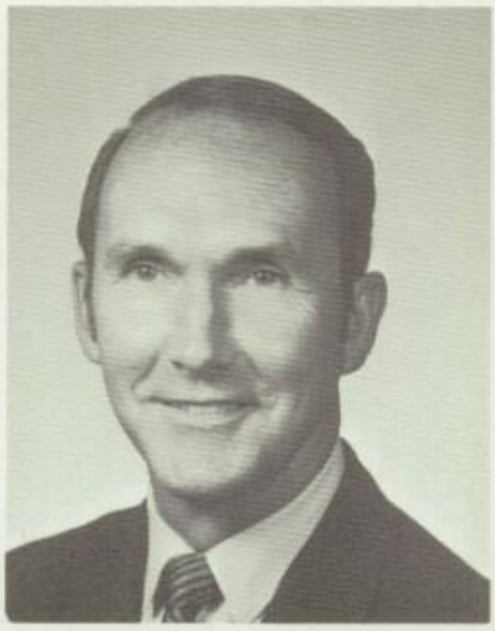
ADMINISTERING the oath of office for a four year term to the new Board of Education member, Walter Stuecken, is the task of president Harold Cominsky.

REPRESENTING the populous community of East Detroit on this year's 1970–71 Board of Education are: Donald Linenger, trustee; Harold Keas, treasurer; Rosemary Pemberton, vice-president; Harold Cominsky, president; William Taglione, secretary; and Walter Stuecken, trustee.

John C. Enwright



DEDICATION made the late Mr. John Enwright an outstanding person.

Even though his studies and travel were abruptly and tragically ended while on sabbatical leave in Florida, his vast list of contributions to East Detroit High School will never be forgotten.

As a social studies and journalism teacher, Mr. Enwright tried to help his students develop their own personalities and plan for their future. Since 1948 when he started teaching at EDHS, his main objective was seeing students achieve excellence in everything they attempted.

Among Mr. Enwright's finest accomplishments were the publication of the Shamrock newspaper and the "All-American" East Detroiter for which he received national recognition. In addition, he initiated and directed Shenanigans, and sponsored the New York-Washington Tour for a number of years. The excellence of his activities came as a result of long hours, hard work and devotion.

Extensive travel, mixed with study, was Mr. Enwright's purpose for his sabbatical leave this year. He enjoyed visiting other countries and had visited 23 different countries during the five-month period which had started last June.

"Involvement was his way of life. He was a quiet man who accepted the fundamental, cardinal principles of good teaching and good living." These words spoken by Miss Ruth Turunen, in her eulogy, at a memorial service held at St. Barnabas Church for Mr. Enwright, exemplified the personality of Mr. Enwright.

Mr. John Enwright accomplished much in his years of service here at EDHS. Although his death was a great loss to the faculty and students, the memories of him and his achievements will linger as a reminder of a dedicated man.

Lay Workers' Services Are Beneficial To School

ADULT evening classes are coordinated by director, Lewis Wetzel, BELOW. Schedule cards of the night students are checked and sorted by Dennis Wheeler, Fred Rosa and Dorothy Puffpaff, RIGHT.

CLERICAL work consisting of issuing report cards, keeping attendance, library and student files, and all bookkeeping was handled by the secretaries. BOTTOM ROW, Mrs. Joyce Cross, Mrs. Carol Warner, Mrs. Ellen Fensch, Mrs. Virginia Reeb and Mrs. Angeline Britt. TOP ROW, Mrs. Dolores Holland, Mrs. Helen Graves, Mrs. Dorothy Puffpaff, Mrs. Bernice Chapman, Mrs. Judy Blackford, Mrs. Frances Vandelinder and Mrs. Kathy Zschoche.

CLEANLINESS and sanitary conditions within the old cafeteria were achieved through the daily and steadfast efforts of custodian William Bonk.

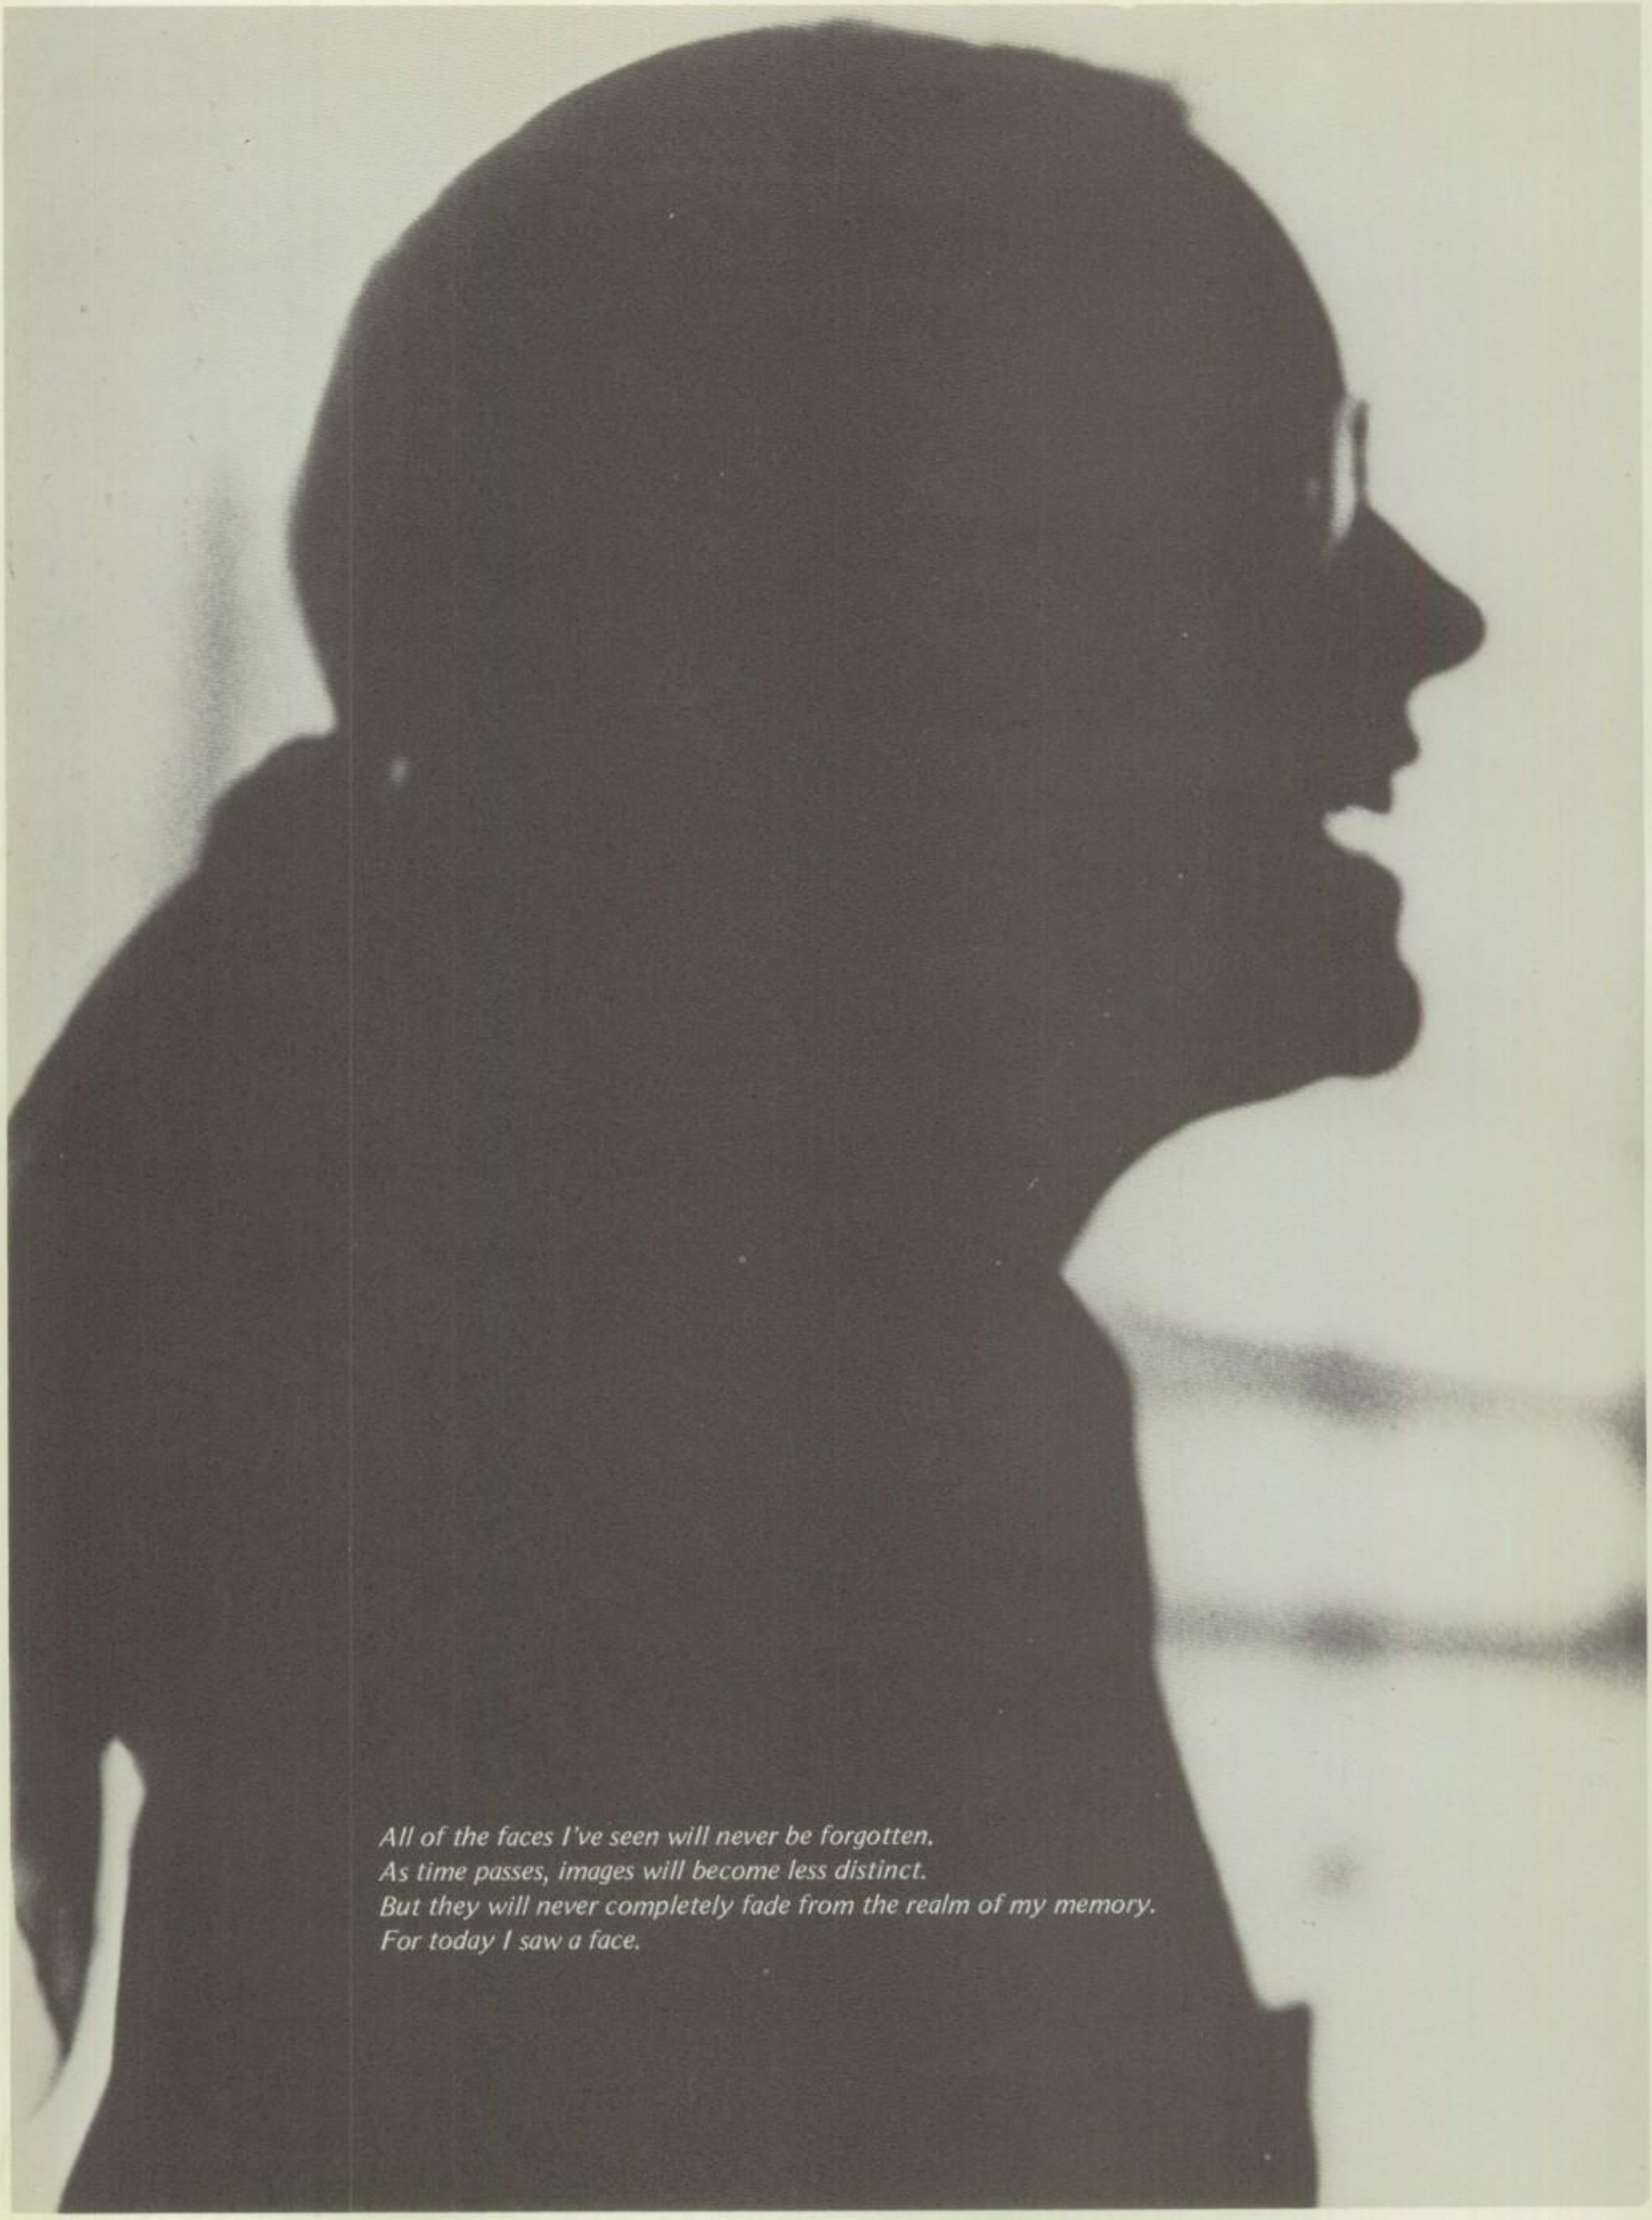
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

MEMBERS of the 1970 East Detroiter staff would like to thank the teachers and students who helped in any way to produce and sell the largest yearbook ithe history of the school.

Special appreciation is extended to the entire staff of the H. A. Powell Studios who not only provided excellent photographic coverage but also produced quality prints and performed other numerous services which made the work of the East Detroiter staff much more enjoyable.



All of the faces I've seen will never be forgotten.
As time passes, images will become less distinct.
But they will never completely fade from the realm of my memory.
For today I saw a face.

Kathy,

This is gonna be hard to write and it's gonna be even harder to read. I really feel this year has been eventful and even fun times! We've shared the good and the bad the happy and the sad. Now we have a whole year to look forward to and its our turn to leave all the times you've appreciate me through - especially in understanding (you know what I mean) Well I could go on forever but I better not. GOOD LUCK Love, Cris

GOD BLESS (here that very much?)

Senior year rule! Much. I helped some person

Kath,
Even though I just met you this year, I consider you just about my very best friend. (Please excuse the English from here on, cuz it isn't very easy explaining how highly I think of you. But I'll try to the best of my ability, which isn't saying very much.) Here goes! You're the nicest, sweetest, coolest, most understanding and sincere friend I've ever had. You also have tons of patience for being able to put up with me for all this time. Kathy, the world definitely does not need more people like me, it needs more people like you. If everyone was like you, this earth would be the greatest place in this whole universe. And even that's an understatement. I haven't helped you half as much as you've helped me. Just your being around was a big comfort. Whenever I had a "boy problem" you were always there, ready & willing to listen. You're not like everyone else; you're honest. You told me off whenever I needed it and I really appreciate it. I'd also like to Thank You for letting me go to basketball & baseball games with you. By the way, I'd love to help you with anything you need help with next year. One other thing, you'll be sorry for inviting me to your house during the summer when you see me there everyday. No, I'm just kidding. Summer is a vacation and if there's one thing you need a vacation from it's me. But that's TUFF. I'm coming over to see you anyways. Don't ever forget all the fun we've had in school, I doubt if I could ever forget. Good luck in everything you attempt, even though you possess everything you need to make life successful, by a large margin, you'll succeed. Always keep your great personality, beautiful smile, funky faces and that always appreciated - great sense of humor and you'll always keep people smilin. God bless you always and may all your dreams come true.

P.S. I sincerely hope that you and Phil get back together again. ☺ If you do, he'll be the luckiest guy in the world.

Luv Ya,
Marian
